DALLAS B.P.P. LEADS 1,000 IN MARCH FOR JOBS

Dallas Black Panther leader, FRED BELL, (center) leads march of over 1,000 community people in downtown Dallas for jobs and against police brutality.

(Dallas, Texas) - Nearly 1,000 Dallas citizens, mostly Black and mostly unemployed, demonstrated their demand for jobs in downtown Dallas on Saturday, April 26, in a march and rally led by the Dallas Chapter of the Black Panther Party, and co-sponsored by the Brown Berets, a Chicano activist group, and Bois d'Arc Patriots, a White activist group in this city.

The demonstration was originally planned in March but was postponed in response to demands on the Black Panther Party chapter resulting from the police murder on March 20 of Brother David Carroll Walker, 23-year-old cousin of Fred Bell, coordinator of the Dallas Chapter of the Black Panther Party. (See THE BLACK PANTHER, April 12, 1975.)

Chanting "We want jobs!" the mostly young marchers paraded through downtown Dallas and rallied on the steps of Dallas City Hall, where speakers representing the sponsoring organizations and community leaders urged the well organized and disciplined demonstrators to carry their protests to the Dallas City Council chambers.

EDITORIAL

LIES ABOUT BLACK UNEMPLOYMENT

The Commissioner of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics got caught in his own lie last week and had to admit it publicly. However, his explanation, couched in a jumble of first quarter and second quarter figures, compared to third quarter and fourth quarter estimates, mixed up with when the recession began, etc., etc., produced, as it was supposed to do, another lie attempting to cover up what every Black person in this country knows: that Black workers have been harder hit than White workers in the current depression.

Commissioner Julius Shiskin had told reporters earlier that a special Bureau of Labor Statistics study showed male workers have been laid off at a faster rate in this period than women, and that White male workers faster than Blacks, giving the percentage increase for White males as 103 per cent and for Black males 83 per cent.

Last week he was compelled to admit that he was "incorrect" and reported that from the fourth quarter of 1973 through the first quarter of this year, the number of laid off Black male workers increased at a faster rate than White — 169.3 per cent versus 146.2 per cent. Even with this admission, Shiskin concludes that "Blacks have been hit about as hard as Whites," according to an Associated Press report.

All Mr. Shiskin need do if he is seriously interested in determining the rate of lay-offs of Black workers is to take a slow tour around Oakland, California, Gary, Indiana or Detroit, Michigan, to name a few of many examples, and to talk to Black males he would find looking for jobs, waiting to be rehired and resolved that there's no work out there for them.

But, Mr. Shiskin is not interested in the truth. He is interested rather in doing a snow job for the government in order to cover up the extent of the depression among Black people in this country. His first attempt failed. But his second is likely to succeed since the majority of the population in this country refuses to listen to the warnings that arise out of the Black ghettos of our industrial cities for fear of what they will hear.

"Hanoi is offering us bargains in surplus U.S. military equipment."

An Appeal To Our Readers

Dear Reader,

On page 22 of this issue of THE BLACK PANTHER we are publishing our first crossword puzzle in our new format. We wish to publicly thank James and Vicki Riley of Richmond, Virginia, who, in response to our appeal that has appeared in this space, sent us two puzzles that they created. The second one will appear in next week's issue.

Once again we have demonstrated the true nature of a People's newspaper that relies on its readers' skills, interests, commitment and devotion for contributions to its growth and development.

That is what our fund raising appeal is about. We need to continue to enlarge and improve our paper. We need to let more people know about our paper. We need to greatly enlarge the circulation of our paper. We are confident that many potential readers of THE BLACK PANTHER are out there if we can only reach them; get word to them about what our paper is like today; get just one copy of our paper into their hands.

In order to do this we need money to promote THE BLACK PANTHER. We need money to make it possible to send out sample copies to mailing lists that we have obtained of individuals we know would respond to our paper. We need money to purchase more dispensers for our paper. We need money to purchase space in Black and progressive publications advertising our paper, to purchase time on Black-oriented radio stations to talk about our paper.

Remember, with every contribution of $25.00 or more, you will receive free a one year's subscription. For every contribution of $100.00 or more you will receive free a life-time subscription.

We don't intend to just make THE BLACK PANTHER the best Black newspaper in America. We intend to make THE BLACK PANTHER the best newspaper in this country, Black or otherwise! We need your help to do this.

ALL POWER TO THE PEOPLE

COMMENT

"THE 3rd HERD"

The following article, reprinted from Forward, an independent servicemen's newsletter published monthly in Berlin, West Germany, reflects the rejection of the U.S. system by American soldiers who are organizing to resist violation of their human, Constitutional and legal rights.

The Third Herd is a unit attached to the retraining brigade at Ft. Riley Kansas. It is a rather unique unit in that there are no other units like it in the entire Army. Its men are witty, strong minded, and aggressive, topped with an attitude of "We don't take shit from nobody; dig that!"

There's no misunderstanding of the Third Herd, its purpose is termination. The futures of those in the 3rd Herd is short lived (as far as military future goes). You see the other unique aspect of this particular unit is that everyone in the unit is up for a less than honorable discharge. Over 100 people who spend time in this unit are discharged (usually undesirably) every eight weeks.

Can you imagine being at such a unit for any amount of time? Well, let me run down briefly a description of my experiences at such a unit. I'll begin with the type of person that you would meet in this situation. He would be a person who was probably convicted of getting high, AWOL, disrespect, or refusing to get a hair cut. He's probably young tunder 23 and although may seem a little slow about a few things, he's probably one of the more open minded individuals you'll ever meet.

UNIT N.C.O.

On the other side of the wire, if you can understand what I mean, is the Unit NCO. This type of person is also a little slow about a few things like reading names off the head-count roster, but he's probably very closed minded, very military, and probably a reject from the MPs. The thing is, he's in charge of you, while you are a member of the 3rd Herd, and he has the power to make it rough, or let you slide. It all depends how you play the game.

CALIF. ASSEMBLY PASSES "SUPER MAYOR" PLAN

(Sacramento, Calif.) — The ominous "super mayor" plan designed and destined, if implemented, to engulf Black and minority Bay Area communities under a White wave of reactionary regional rule swept into the state senate recently, passed on from the state assembly by a 43 to 26 vote.

The assembly rejected, 29 to 21, an amendment to the repressive legislation which would have required a referendum by voters within the nine counties involved in the anti-Black, anti-home rule regional government plan.

Proposed by Assemblyman John Knowlton Richmond — who has pushed regional government legislation without success for the past eight years — the plan creates a Bay Area Planning Agency (BAPA), governed by a 25-member board of directors and a $35,000-a-year regional executive or "super mayor."

If created, the BAPA will assume the existing functions of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency, the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG), and the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. It will also push for broad additional regional powers.

Half of the board of directors would be elected by special elections, while the other half would be appointed from the ranks of incumbent city council people and county supervisors.

POLICE RACISM

COALITION LEADER CALLS MAYOR'S ATTACK ON PUBLIC HEARINGS "POOR MENTALITY"

(Oakland, Calif.) — Pastor J. Alfred Smith, nominal leader of the community coalition demanding an end to the racism which rocks this city's police department, has characterized as "a poor mentality for 1975" recent statements by Oakland Mayor John Reading which were critical of continuing public hearings on this issue.

Responding to an hysterical outburst by Reading at the Thursday City Council meeting that the widespread demands for public hearing on police racism were "irresponsible attacks, deliberate attempts to undermine the administration of this city," Pastor Smith, of Allen Temple Baptist Church in East Oakland, told THE BLACK PANTHER:

"It's all right for Mayor Reading to yell and scream when the police fail to respond to his wife's cries for help when his business is burglarized, but we Black natives are expected to keep quiet when our community cries for help. This is his mentality. It is a poor mentality for 1975."

Pastor Smith has acted as spokesperson for the broad-based Community Coalition on Police

An overflow crowd attended the April 22 City Council meeting demanding an end to police racism in Oakland.

Racism at two City Council sessions, on February 6 and April 22.

The February 6 session, led by South NAACP executive director Alphonso Galloway and other prominent church and community representatives, led directly to the establishment of a special three-man Council committee to investigate the charges of racism within the OPD.

At the April 22 Council meeting, over 400 persons turned out to support the Coalition's efforts to ensure that the special committee conduct a nonbiased, in-depth probe — complete with public hearings — and to back Pastor Smith and other Coalition leaders whose credibility had been attacked through several Oakland Tribune articles.

The first public hearing, held at Pastor Smith's Allen Temple Baptist Church in East Oakland on April 21 resulted in a stormy three hour confrontation. Scores of angry local residents testified to countless instances of OPD harassment, brutality and murder.

Reading's own racism and political anxieties, like those of City Manager Cecil Riley, are clear from the recent attacks on continuing public hearings.

Reading has charged that demands for public hearings on both the police racism issue and the city's federal job programs — the latter forwarded by the Muleskinner Democratic Club this past week — are attempts to build interest in the Mayor-City Council elections in 1977. He said that public hearings become "a circus."

At the same time, City Manager Cecil Riley has taken a position unequivocally backing Police Chief George Hart and has begun to take potshots at the Oakland Black Officers Association (OBOA).

Responding to an OBOA Memorandum of Concerns distributed at the April 22 Council meeting by their attorney James White, and a follow-up report by Police Chief Hart, the City Manager belligerently writes:

Youth Institute Carnival Huge Success

(Oakland, Calif.) — Cotton candy, pop corn, hot dogs, fortune telling, free Sickle Cell Anemia testing and much more were on hand at last Sunday's highly successful Community Carnival held at East Oakland's Community Learning Center.

The good time everybody had was clearly evident in the many happy faces, ranging from babies to senior citizens, seen throughout the six-hour event.

The carnival was held to raise funds for the Intercommunal Youth Institute, East Oakland's model school for Black and poor children. The Institute is one of the numerous educational, cultural and social programs housed in the Learning Center.

The parking lot of the Learning Center was brightly decorated with red, blue, white and green flags, making the atmosphere truly carnival like. As the talented rock group, the Syndicate, played such favorites as "Sadie," the crowded parking lot was alive with activity. There were darts, magnetic hockey, and buttons made while a photographer took attractive color snapshots of families and friends.

In addition, limber and skilled youth gave a martial arts demonstration of Tae Kwon Do. The youth, who participate in the Learning Center's Free Martial Scenes as carnival-goers enjoy a pleasant Sunday afternoon buying trinkets and playing games.

Arts program, were roundly applauded by onlookers.

Meanwhile, in the courtyard, cotton candy faced children and their parents played Knock Down the Bottle, bought lovely flowered plants and were even given free tests for Sickle Cell Anemia, general anemia and tuberculosis, administered by volunteers of the People's Free Medical Research and Health Clinic.

BALLOONS

A carnival is not a carnival without balloons, and two good-looking, jovial young men made sure that no child — or fun loving adult — was without a balloon.

A number of activities went on in the cafeteria of the Learning Center. The ever popular corn rowing brought many customers for the two sisters who expertly performed their craft while the leather at the barbershop kept very busy giving haircuts. Also, of special interest to the women was the cosmetic lady who had all her customers looking beautiful.

The senior citizens of the Learning Center's Seniors Against A Fearful Environment (S.A.F.E.) Program held a rummage sale

For astrology lovers, there was a pretty sister telling fortunes; in addition, brightly painted water color portraits were done and delicate, handcrafted jewelry was on sale. The youth love to dance, and they got their chance in the strobe light dancing room.

The hardworking parents and staff of the Institute made the Carnival the success it was, and one of their main feats was the delicious food they prepared. There was mouthwatering fried and baked chicken, baked ham, ham hocks, potato salad, sweet potatoes, baked beans, chile beans, lasagna, corn bread and such tempting desserts as brownies, mince meat pie, German chocolate cake and peach and apple cobblers.

Throughout the afternoon, the carnival's deejay and announcer reminded everyone that the numerous free programs of the Community Learning Center are available for the entire community. Judging by the success of the Community Carnival, it was evident that the community will be getting more and more involved in these programs.

Reverend Fred L. Shuttlesworth, a local leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), announced agreement on a limited integration plan which ended Birmingham demonstrations, on May 10, 1963.

"Until We're Free"

A powerful, yet tender and inspiring new album by Elaine Brown. The songs on the album, were a beautiful treasury of protest against the quality of life for Black Americans. Listeners will find themselves engulfed in a flow of emotion as Elaine's melodic voice works its magic. Once you have heard "Until We're Free", you will understand why Harry P. Neustadt says, "A consuming talent, a total dedication and a proven commitment are combined in Elaine Brown, making her the first genuine People's Artist America has produced."

JOAN LITTLE DEFENSE DENIED REMOVAL OF SPECIAL PROSECUTOR

(Washington, N.C.) — In the case of Joan Little, the Black sister accused of murdering a White jail guard who tried to rape her last August, a defense motion to remove special prosecutor John Wilkinson was denied last week by Superior Court Judge Henry McKinnon.

Wilkinson was hired by the family of Clarence Alligood, the 62-year-old Beaufort County jailer whom Sister Little is accused of killing. The defense sought Mr. Wilkinson removed on the grounds that he was hired to seek a conviction, while the state prosecutor is bound to see that justice is done.

In a speech to the court, the 65-year-old Wilkinson claimed he would seek justice in the trial of the 20-year-old Black woman, Sister Little.

North Carolina law permits privately employed prosecutors to aid the state.

Ms. Little contends that Alligood was trying to rape her in her cell last August and that she stabbed him with an ice pick he used to threaten her in fending off the attack.

Judge McKinnon also denied various other motions by defense attorneys. They were a request for a bill of particulars on the first-degree murder indictment against Ms. Little; a request for an inquiry into possible wiretapping of the office of defense attorney Jerry Paul, in Durham; and disclosure of any paid informants who could jeopardize the defense.

In a favorable ruling on one defense motion, to which even the state agreed, Judge McKinnon allowed a change of venue moving the trial 100 miles west to Raleigh, the state's capital. □

N.Y. TROOPERS SEEK STATE FUNDS TO DEFEND ATTICA COVER-UP

(Albany, N.Y.) — Sniveling that "some people will not rest until a peace officer is indicted," the New York state police union has called on the state to provide legal funds for troopers who participated in the Attica Prison massacre that ended the 1971 rebellion.

The New York Times reports that the Police Benevolent Association (PBA), has complained that it had spent $200,000 of union funds to provide legal assistance in over 3,000 appearances that troopers have had to make before various grand jury inquiries and other Attica investigations, and that the state "has not been willing to assist these men in any form."

Governor Carey, in particular, was criticized by the troopers for giving them a cold shoulder. The troopers state they had requested a meeting with him about the legal-cost question in two letters and three phone calls to his office that met with no response.

"We've just been ignored, that's the galling point," said Charles Stuart, the PBA delegate from F Troop in Middletown.

The troopers find themselves in the exploitative position of being investigated by the very body they had so willingly been puppets of during the rebellion, the state of New York.

The mental anguish endured by the troopers and their families has been considerable," claimed the PBA president, Patrick J.

Carroll, in a slow, intent reading of a press statement in his office here.

The troopers are suffering "unforgivable" neglect, he claimed, "especially in the light of the enormous amount of money being spent by the state to secure legal defense for those very prisoners who we were ordered, by the state of New York, to retake the prison from."

The union can never be sure of why each trooper is called to the secret grand jury on Attica and therefore has been supplying legal aid in every case, the union said. Lawyers may not accompany witnesses to the grand-jury room, but the troopers, like other witnesses, have been able to leave the room to consult with counsel.

The PBA leaders are quick to emphasize that they know of no wrongdoing by troopers and expected that there would be no indictment of troopers.

Carroll and other PBA officials reflect the troopers' edginess over the latest Attica controversy. It involves Governor Carey's order for an inquiry into charges that trooper misdeeds have been overlooked by state prosecutors when the troopers, members of the state police force, declined to say whether they had been at the prison during the 1971 rebellion. They also refused to discuss who had been called before grand juries.

"If we were there, we don't want everybody to know about it. I could be harassed by people and families of inmates that were there," Carroll explains.

In other developments, the trial of Attica defendant Shango Bahati Kakawana (Bernard Stroble) has been expanded into a "judicial inquiry" directed by Supreme Court Justice Joseph Mattina. After examining the files most recently turned over to the court by the FBI, Judge Mattina declared that "material has surfaced which warrants further clarification." He announced that he had directed Anthony Simonetti, chief prosecutor of the Attica investigations, to be present in Buffalo for questioning.

THE HARDER THEY COME

THE HARDER THEY COME (1972). The Jamaican film, directed by Peter Hall, follows the story of several rural young men from the island of Montego Bay who become drug dealers during the 1960s. Montego Bay is a small town in Jamaica, where the people are poor and the government is corrupt. The film shows the harsh reality of life in the slums of Montego Bay, where the people are struggling to survive. The film is a powerful critique of the capitalist system, showing how it exploits the poor and the working class. The film is a classic of world cinema and a must-see for anyone interested in social issues and the struggle for justice.

MAY 20, 1975 THE EDUCATION OF SONNY CARSON

THE EDUCATION OF SONNY CARSON (1972). The American film, directed by Melvin Van Peebles, follows the story of a Black man named Sonny Carson, who is trying to find his place in the world. Sonny is a Black man who has lost his job and is struggling to make ends meet. He is a single father who is trying to raise his son, Sonny Jr., in a difficult environment. The film shows the challenges faced by Black people in the United States, particularly in the South, where they face discrimination and segregation. The film is a powerful critique of the capitalist system, showing how it exploits the poor and the working class. The film is a classic of world cinema and a must-see for anyone interested in social issues and the struggle for justice.

IN ADJUSTMENT

CENTER REVEALED

Excerpted from a post-trial memorandum chronicling the daily abuses heaped upon six Black and Brown prisoner-activists confined within the San Quentin Adjustment Center, the following article vividly describes the punishments dealt out by prison guards and administrators because of the progressive political beliefs and activities of these proud men. The legal memo, filed by attorneys Fred Hiestand and Mark Merin in federal district court in San Francisco, charges that the continued confinement of the San Quentin 6, including Black Panther Party member Johnny Larry Spain, constitutes "cruel and unusual" punishment. A ruling on the suit is expected this summer.

PART 6

9. Violation of Mail Rights: Because the prison considers plaintiffs to be special cases, their personal correspondence is subjected to particular scrutiny. All in-coming and out-going mail is opened, read and censored, exposing the details of plaintiffs' private lives and fantasies to the guards. Copies of letters supporting the prison's view of the plaintiffs' revolutionary characters are routed to their central files while others are returned to the sender as not suitable for plaintiffs. The guards demonstrate a juvenile streak of crassness by switching the contents of outgoing personal letters in the common practice of "mail crossing." This despicable practice is reserved for those prisoners most disliked by the guards.

The prison censor, exercising power to withhold publications with which he disagrees, impounds nationally distributed printed publications, especially the Midnight Special, a prison-oriented periodical of the National Lawyers Guild. The censor impounds patently inoffensive political texts as well with the justification that they are inflammatory and offend Section 2600 of the California Penal Code.

10. Access to Books and Education Made Difficult: Adjustment Center prisoners may select library books from lists but delays of months have discouraged them from using this resource and they depend on ordering books from publishers.

Scene inside Marin County courtroom prior to recent San Quentin 6 preliminary hearing.

Nonetheless, the procedure for obtaining a book from outside prison is so arduous that nothing like free access is guaranteed. Prison concern that secret messages or drugs or weapons could be secreted inside books justify their exclusion of all books except those coming direct from the publisher. Outside friends cannot send their used books to the prisoners; instead they must buy new ones from the publisher. Even with the direct ordering procedure some books like Revolutionary Suicide, the autobiography of Huey P. Newton, are kept by the prison for months before being cleared and others, like Comrade George, never get through at all.

Prisoners on the mainline may choose from a host of educational and vocational courses, whether leading to degrees or merely for their own development. Men in the Adjustment Center, with vastly more unstructured cell-time, qualify only for sporadic five minute visits from a perambulating volunteer teacher who passes out assignments and picks up what the prisoners have written. Deprived of prison educational programs, plaintiffs have educated themselves. They subscribe to correspondence courses and persuade friends outside prison to share notes they take in their college studies.

ADULT EDUCATOR

Some of these efforts are thwarted however. Self-study material sent to plaintiffs Johnson and Spain by a trained adult educator was blocked with the excuse that it was too bulky to censor. The Adjustment Center counsellor, instead of assisting the prisoners over bureaucratic hurdles, increases the isolation of plaintiffs saying that outside correspondents are a bad influence on them.

11. Confidential Communications Between Attorney and Client Violated: Not even confidential attorney-client correspondence is free from prison scrutiny. Legally protected attorneys' letters are frequently "opened by error." To avoid revealing confidences, the plaintiffs commit none to writing; instead attorneys are implored to visit personally so that important communications can be whispered, or written on notes and held up to the glass in the visiting room. Even then, plaintiffs learned through examination of their central files that efforts were made by guards to overhear their conversations with their attorneys.

12. No Access to the Media: The public knows little about the daily pressures on the prisoners. The prison information officer disseminates the prison's analysis of prison activities, prison violence, prison conditions. The plaintiffs, maligned by prison press releases, have no way of rebutting the image of themselves which the institution purveys. Those on the mainline may be interviewed by the press or even by television crews; but those in the Adjustment Center are denied all access to the media and may not be interviewed even though there are frequent requests for such contact by both the prisoners and the media. Security needs are cited as a justification for such prohibitions, yet media representatives selected by the prison have been permitted to tour the Adjustment Center and to interview selected prisoners chosen by the prison administration.

G. ADDITIONAL PUNISHMENT INSIDE THE ADJUSTMENT CENTER

1. "Write-ups" or Rule Violation Reports: Instead of easing the restrictions imposed on plaintiffs or compensating them for the deprivations of their

HEALTH CARE

MUST BE FREE

(San Francisco, Calif.) - A boycott of public hospitals began here last week by anesthesiologists as part of a large scale protest by doctors in northern California over the ridiculously high ($10,000) annual premium they must pay for malpractice insurance.

(Malpractice insurance is money paid by doctors that is used for any legal action that might be taken against them involving treatment of a patient.)

The walkout places the community in jeopardy because of the resulting lack of health care services (emergencies will be provided for by private hospitals). However, no sane person can blame the doctors for refusing to pay such high premiums to rip-off insurance companies.

Such medical crises as the current one in the Bay Area are of great concern to Black and other poor oppressed people because we suffer the most from this country's totally inadequate, inhumane health care system.

Point 6 of the Black Panther Party Program, March 29, 1972, Platform states: "We want completely free health care for all Black and oppressed people."

Clearly, the gross inequities of health care under a capitalist, thus, profit-making system have not only deprived people of the high quality health care they deserve but has also denied doctors an atmosphere within which to work that is free of financial worries.

The situation in California points once again to the necessity of instituting totally free health care in this country.

"We believe that the government must provide, free of charge, for the people, health facilities which will not only treat our illnesses, most of which have come about as a result of our oppression, but which will also develop preventive medical programs to guarantee our future survival."

The above position of the Black Panther Party goes to the core of what must be done in U.S. medicine. Adequate health care must not remain a luxury that only the rich can afford.

WAUPUN PRISON STIFLES REHABILITATION PROGRAM

(Milwaukee, Wisc.) — A move emanated to implement a meaningful rehabilitation program has been stifled and co-opted by the Waupun Prison administration. This was reported to the Milwaukee Chapter of the Black Panther Party, by inmates incarcerated at Waupun, through the Committee for the Survival of Prisoners.

A memo by concerned inmates to inmate workers says, in part:

"In October 1972, prisoners suggested to authorities proposals for alternative occupational rehabilitation programs, including the environment of private businesses on a 'contact' basis. A business would agree to train a prisoner, prior to release, in a marketable skill. The prisoner would agree to work for that business for a specified period after release, with the option to continue to work for that business or seek employment elsewhere."

The program would be connected with suggested plans for apprenticeships, On Job Training, and work-release programs. It would be subsidized by the businesses and by tax appropriations. The tax level would not be affected, because the program just replaces existing ineffective programs.

Prisoners submitted suggestions to several businesses, citizen-groups, state officials, and Warden Ramon L. Gray. Gray flatly refused to even look at the proposal. And, he said he would penalize any prisoner who contacted any business, group or official, regarding private businesses working with this institution. Subsequently, proposals and other papers and documents were removed from several prisoners' cells, and Gray held and intercepted prisoner mail to and from businesses, citizen groups, and several public officials.

Gray and other state employees then used prisoners' documentation to start the same programs under their authorship, with private businesses. The program, called TAPP, is now ready to begin. Involved businesses include Xerox Corporation, Harnischfeger, A.O. Smith and several others.

However, TAPP does not conform to the original suggestions. It does, in fact, seek to

MCCLYMONDS H.S. DEMONSTRATION

DISCRIMINATORY BANS AGAINST UNWED MOTHERS LIFTED

(Oakland, Calif.) — An effective and successful student demonstration at McClymonds High School here last week has resulted in the lifting of the ban against young sisters with children running for elective offices.

The policy change by Dr. Willie Harper, principal at McClymonds, came on Friday, May 2, following a one-hour demonstration in front of the school's main entrance by approximately 80 students.

Organized and led by Sister Valerie Williams, the student body president, and backed by the student council, the demonstration took place after repeated efforts to reach a policy change through discussion with McClymonds and Oakland school district administrators failed.

In an interview with THE BLACK PANTHER last weekend,

Sister Valerie said that she had tried to convince Dr. Harper of the need for a policy change for the past three years.

RESOURCEFUL SISTER

Investigation by the resourceful sister revealed that, contrary to Dr. Harper's claims, the McClymonds community board did not support the ban on unwed mothers, nor did sentiment favor discrimination against young sisters with children in the surrounding, predominantly Black West Oakland community.

Formerly, unwed mothers at McClymonds were: (1) forbidden from attending gym classes; (2) forbidden from being homecoming queen; (3) forbidden from running for school office; and (4) forbidden from becoming cheerleaders.

As a result of previous pressures and last week's successful demonstration, all four prohibitions have now been repealed.

Dr. Harper, who is Black and a recent transfer to the Oakland public school system from Arkansas, justified the restrictions on the grounds that the school participated in a federal anti-dropout program and that unwed mothers were the main reasons for dropouts at McClymonds.

DROPOUT PROBLEM

Students and others familiar with the Oakland public school system, while admitting that unwed mothers do contribute to the dropout problem, argue forcefully that an insensitive district administration, poor educational methods and the critical lack of funding for school recreational and cultural programs are far greater causes for young students leaving school before graduation.

Sister Williams and others close to the McClymonds student body also reported that a few

GUINIER: "HARVARD ADMIN. UNDERMINES BLACK STUDIES"

On March 5, 1975, Professor Ecart Guinier, chairman of the Department of Afro-American Studies at Harvard University delivered a blistering attack on the Harvard administration for its off-handed treatment of the Afro-American Studies Department and African and Afro-American studies in general. The attack was contained in a 10-page statement presented by Professor Guinier to a committee of Harvard's Board of Overseers. THE BLACK PANTHER has obtained a copy of Professor Guinier's statement and is publishing it in full in a series beginning below because of its relevance to the Black Studies departments in colleges and universities throughout the country. Part I of the series follows:

"When it is borne in mind that Harvard pundits were deeply involved in the defense of alleged African inferiority during slavery, when it is recalled that Harvard professors played key roles in the defense of White supremacy in the aftermath of Reconstruction, and when it is noted that since slavery Harvard professors have felt a compulsion to advance theories of African genetic inferiority, it should not surprise that an academic lynching bee is surfacing at Harvard today.

Orchestrated out of President Derek Bok's office, the forces opposing Afro-American Studies have, in recent months, dropped any semblance of according the Afro-American Studies Department the most routine rights that inhere in Harvard's departments. President Bok and Dean Henry Rosovsky, though semi-ignorant regarding the history and education in America, have decided that only they know what is best for Black people, and have determined to enforce this slavocratic view at whatever cost to the victimized and to Harvard's liberal image.

To perceive such attitudes and actions as divorced from corrupt forces currently oppressing Blacks in this country and elsewhere would be a serious error. In fact the treatment which blacks receive at Harvard today parallels their treatment in American life. The governing position at Harvard on racial matters is no more elevated than that of the conservative majority of the U.S. Supreme Court, of the current occupant of the White House, or you local police chief. That is to say, President Derek Bok and his underlings, on matters of race, haven't the slightest compunction about perverting truth and twisting reason and sequestering behavior in order to maintain the oppression of Black people.

"We shall treat this theme in some detail, but first a few matters on the bright side. Our courses, as the academic year '73-'74 began, and in spite of the storm of controversy around the department, continued to draw a respectable number of students. All in all, there is no question that Afro-American Studies attracts its share of some of the most able students on campus. Moreover, department concentrators, giving the lie to detractors of Afro-American Studies, entered leading professional and graduate schools for the study of law, business, education and public administration — just as concentrators have done, for example, in the department of economics. So respect is due a staff which combines research with teaching in such a way that our offerings comport with the best of modern scholarship.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

"Also on the bright side: we were, in '73-'74 able to bring several gifted scholars to Harvard on a part-time basis, among them A.B. Spellman. Mr. Spellman, incidentally, has returned to Harvard on a more permanent basis. His strengths are many, and he has helped us in a variety of ways. A generalist with the skills of several specialists, Spellman ranges easily over several disciplines, including literature, music and the politics of culture.

Moreover, he has been a close observer of the recent phase of the civil rights movement. An accomplished and respected poet, A.B. Spellman is perhaps best known for his work as a music critic, especially for his sensitive and probing Four In The Be-Bop Bassiness. Spellman's current project is a biography of Billie Holiday. Thanks to his presence, we shall be in a position, for a number of years, to offer fine instruction in 20th century Afro-American culture.

"Our cultural offerings for the '74-'75 academic year are especially distinguished, for Dr. Eileen Southern, one of the nation's leading authorities on Black music, has accepted an appointment in the department. The added part-time appointment of Michael Harper, professor of literature at Brown and a finalist a few years ago for the National Book Award for poetry, has given the department unusual strength in Afro-American culture.

"The department, in sum, continually strives to affirm the ineluctable tie between excellence in offerings and an unwillingness to betray the trust of our people by becoming a mirror image of a traditional Harvard department. Yet an essential problem remains: how to secure on a permanent basis leading authorities on the Black experience?

I. Our assessment of departmental needs as the '73-'74 academic year began did not vary dramatically from evaluations over the four previous years: The department was still without permanent strength in the vital areas of Afro-American history and literature. Though Harvard's

PEOPLE'S PERSPECTIVE

AGEE FOR TRIAL?

Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) Director William Colby says that the CIA is looking into the possibility of bringing treason charges against ex-CIA agent Philip Agee. Agee, a 12-year veteran with the CIA in Latin America, quit the agency in 1968. He recently published a book on CIA activities titled Beside the Company: A CIA Diary, which is currently a bestseller in Canada and England. The CIA is attempting to make it impossible for the book to be obtained in this country.

N.Y. COPS GUILTY

Three former New York City detectives of the police department's elite Special Investigations Unit were found guilty recently of having shaken down alleged narcotics dealers for nearly $100,000. The verdict brought to an end a trial that had been preceded by the murder of one narcotics dealer and the disappearance of another, both of whom had been scheduled to be government witnesses against the three detectives.

MAGEE WINS APPEAL

The California Supreme Court last week ordered a lower court to start processing an appeal on his conviction by Ruchell Magee. Brother Magee had pleaded guilty nearly one year ago to charges of aggravated kidnapping in connection with the Marin County bid for freedom in which Jonathan Jackson and two others died. After he had pleaded guilty, Magee attempted to withdraw the plea, but the judge did not let him. He then appealed to the Supreme Court, which has now told San Jose Superior Court Judge William Ingram to process the appeal.

N.J. TEACHER REHired

A judge ordered last week that Brookdale Community College (New Jersey) reinstate a journalism professor fired for criticizing the college president, and that the college president and six trustees each pay her $10,000 in punitive damages. The teacher, Patricia Endress, was awarded a total of $104,000 in damages and lawyers' fees.

STRIKING MILWAUKEE MEATCUTTERS HARASSED BY POLICE

(Milwaukee, Wis.) — Six persons were arrested and four policemen were injured on April 21 during a picket line confrontation at two struck South Side meat packing plants. The meatcutters of Local 248 of the Meat Allied Foodworkers Union have been on strike against nine major meat packing companies — members of the Milwaukee Meat Packers Association (MMPA) — since January over wages and threatened loss of the 36-hour work week.

Some 100 pickets were along the 200 block of the United Packing Company when extra police and tactical squad goons were called in to protect scab employees attempting to enter the plant.

Edmund Bokrowicz, business manager of Local 248, said pickets were provoked when management began bringing out scab workers in bunches to cars parked across the street from the entrance. He also said that pickets were provoked when a photographer for Newspapers, Inc., publishers of The Milwaukee Sentinel and The Milwaukee Journal, took pictures of the workers crossing the picket line.

Federal Judge Robert W. Warren had earlier issued an injunction against Local 248 ordering it to stop "interfering with employees," despite the fact that it has been clearly established that the Meat Packers Association is operating plants with especially hired scabs and strike breakers collected by advertisements in local papers.

According to the police, three persons were arrested following a fist-fight between strikers and scabs that took place in a parking lot at the Northern Packing Company plant. Three others were arrested and four policemen injured when police attempted to arrest a woman picket who allegedly threw something at a scab car.

Police said they will seek charges of disorderly conduct, obstructing, battery against an

OPPOSITION MOUNTS TO REAPPORTIONMENT PLAN

CHICAGO MAYOR DALEY SEEKS EXPANDED POWER

(Chicago, Ill.) — Opposition, led by Black and other minority groups, is mounting here against a state congressional reapportionment bill proposed by forces loyal to Mayor Richard Daley — a bill clearly designed to expand the mayor's corrupt control of Illinois' Democratic Party politics.

Illinois Senate Bill 1250, introduced by Black state Senator Cecil A. Partee of Chicago, a Daley loyalist, would give Chicago Democrats control over nine Congressional districts by creating two city-suburban districts. Seven districts presently lie within Chicago.

The bill, if passed, would eliminate the seats of several Republicans and some Democratic congressmen who have refused to follow the Daley line. Black congressman and former U.S. Olympic star Ralph Metcalf of Chicago, a Daley foe, who represents the present First District, would have his district cut in size if the bill gets through the state legislature.

Daley is determined to regain his control over national Democatic presidential politics — which he lost in the 1972 election when the Illinois delegation he headed to the Democratic National Convention was unseated for violating party reform rules. The proposed reapportionment plan would give the mayor control over more than half of the state's Democratic delegates to the 1976 convention, political sources here speculate.

Black state senator Richard Newhouse, who opposed Daley in the recent Democratic mayoral primaries, angrily withdrew his support of the bill, charging that it "defeats the legitimate aspirations of the Black community and of the Jewish community. Newhouse's withdrawal has left the bill with only the minimum number of 30 co-sponsors, all Democrats, who can pass the bill out of the Senate to the Assembly.

Newhouse has organized a community committee of concerned citizens opposed to the Daley reapportionment plan. At a recent meeting of the committee, Newhouse said:

The present proposal, S.B.-1250, drafted in secret by the Democratic leadership, is a calculated insult to the minority communities in the city.

"The map changes the north-south orientation of the present Congressional districts to an east-west orientation, with the suburban vote of both the southern and western suburbs diluting the ethnic vote so as to frustrate a certain third Black Congressional district with the possibility of a fourth," Newhouse explained.

FRUSTRATE

He also noted that the bill would frustrate any possibility of a Latin-American emerging as a Congressperson and would cut the number of Jewish representatives in half.

The community committee will present its own plan for reapportionment in the form of an amendment to be introduced by Newhouse.

Among those who attended the meeting called by Newhouse were Black Chicago alderwoman Anna Langford, an announced candidate in the Second Congressional District; Jose "Cha-Cha" Jimenez, general secretary of the Young Lords Organization; Phil Smith, chairman of the Chicago

GAINESVILLE 8 DEFENDANT SHOT BY POLICE

(Gainesville, Florida) — Scott Camil, an anti-war activist and one of the defendants in the 1973 Gainesville 8 trial that won an acquittal on charges of conspiracy to disrupt the 1972 Republican convention in Miami, was critically wounded when he was shot by a federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) officer on March 31. The severity of his wound required that more than a quart of blood be pumped from his lungs and stomach.

In an interview with Liberation News Service, Camil, a Vietnam Veteran Against the War member, said that the arresting officers never identified themselves as such nor did they tell him that he was under arrest. After he was forced into a white sedan at gun point, the officer in the back seat "grabbed me around the neck with his left arm, put his weapon against the back of my head with his right hand, and warned me not to move, or else he'd shoot me."

WHY? WHY?

"I didn't know who they were or why they wanted me. I only knew I had to get away before they could drive me to some remote place," Camil said that as he tried to escape from the car, the driver grabbed him, and the person in the back seat shot him in the upper back at almost point-blank range.

The officers' claim, which reads like a TV script, is that Camil had assaulted them with karate blows to the neck and tried to wrestle the weapon away from the officer in the back seat, when the weapon "accidentally" discharged.

The officers' fantasies were exposed by two witnesses to the shooting who were only a few feet away. They explain that Camil didn't assault the officers, but was only trying to get out of the car when the officer in the back seat shot him.

Bonnie Lett, the owner of the restaurant outside of which the shooting took place, was serving Diner Diner at the time of the shooting. She said that she didn't see Camil assault the officers. "He just tried to get out of the car

"SUPER MAYOR" PLAN

The "super mayor," would have veto power over the board (with a two-thirds vote needed to override), and would be elected at large by voters of the nine county region. He would serve a four year term.

The possible adoption of the "super mayor" plan poses a serious threat to the future of effective political expression and representation for Black and other minority and poor peoples living in the affected nine Bay area counties.

Under regionalization, the rising political consciousness and increased community pressure for jobs, housing and a host of demands which run the gauntlet of human survival needs, can be blocked or simply ignored.

Not only will Black and other minority people — Chicano, Asian, Native American, Filipino — be underrepresented and misrepresented by the "super mayor" plan, all poor people within the nine counties will be victimized. One of the key backers of the Knox bill is the president of Bank of America, who currently serves as a director for ABAG.

In past tries, regional government schemes found little support in the state legislature. This year the story appears to be different.

A principle supporter and author of the amendment which attached the "super mayor" plan to the original Knox bill is Joe McCarthy (San Francisco), the new powerful assembly speaker.

The nine counties threatened to be fused into a regional mini-empire are: Alameda; San Francisco; Contra Costa; San Mateo; Santa Clara; Solano; Sonoma; Napa; and Marin.

THE BLACK PANTHER urges its readers to write, telegraph or telephone your state senators in Sacramento expressing your opposition to this dangerous plan.

COURT RECORDS REVEAL 22 AGENCIES SNOOP ON AMERICANS

(Washington, D.C.) — Court affidavits have revealed that more than 20 federal agencies conduct electronic surveillance either within the U.S. or abroad.

In an Associated Press release recently, John H.F. Shattuck, American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) national staff counsel, said an order by the military judge in a recently concluded court-martial in West Germany had led to the filing of affidavits on wiretap and bugging activity.

The agencies that have been confirmed as having engaged in "Big Brother" tactics:

The FBI; Secret Service; Drug Enforcement Administration; Internal Revenue Service (IRS); Intelligence Division and IRS Inspection Service's Internal Security Division; the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

The National Security Agency; the administrative services section of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Defense Intelligence Service; the Department of the Air Force; Defense Investigative Service; Defense Mapping Agency; Defense Nuclear Agency; Defense Security Assistance Agency; Defense Supply Agency; Defense Civil Preparedness Agency; Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency; Defense Contracting Audit Agency; Defense Communications Agency; Office of Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence; U.S. Army Europe; U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command; Investigation and Police Information Division; U.S. Army Europe; and the 502nd Army Security Agency Group.

The affidavits contradict direct testimony by former Attorney General William R. Saxbe before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing last June, when he denied knowledge of any agency other than the FBI and Justice Department engaging in wiretapping.

Perhaps Saxbe's professed ignorance stems from his desire to avoid being associated with the growing exposure of illegal and ruthless persecution of individuals and organizations through wiretapping by not only the FBI but also the CIA as well.

60,000 ANGRY UNIONISTS RALLY FOR JOBS IN D.C.

LARGEST ECONOMIC PROTEST SINCE 1930s

(Washington, D.C.) — "No more bullshit! No more bullshit!"

So chanted the overflow crowd gathered at RFK Stadium here last Saturday in the largest economic protest in the nation's capital since the "Bonus Army" veterans marched through in the 1930s.

The over 60,000 workers who descended on Washington in caravans of over 800 buses, four railroad trains and in streams of cars, weren't playing around. They demanded action. They wanted jobs.

Instead, Washington and the fat cat labor union bureaucrats turned their backs on the rank and file workers — again — as they have done so many times in the past. They sent off Hubert Humphrey, that very unmellow Minnesotan out to yodel, but the angry crowd wouldn't stand for it. It was like Lawrence Welk appearing in concert when the audience expected "Earth, Wind and Fire."

According to a UPI press dispatch, the played-out act was not prolonged: "Humphrey, unable to quiet the shouts, quickly was escorted from the stand."

Sister Barbara Jordan, representative from Texas, knowing how folks behaved back in Texas

when they were out of work and out of cash, had a slightly better feel for the crowd's mood. She led what the newspapers called a "swelling chant" of, "We need more jobs. We need more jobs," and took her leave before being asked to elaborate on how to get them.

Since the angry crowd of union members was obviously in no mood for sugar-coated speeches, the rally organizers tried reading a telegram from I.W. Abel, the long-time union chief, president of the Industrial Union Division of the AFL-CIO, and one of the sponsors of the event.

"FED UP"

"We're fed up — fed up with delay, fed up with excuses, fed up with lack of vision and lack of initiative. We want action — NOW — from our government."

As the telegram was read, a look around the stadium, at the sea of fluttering banners which proclaimed "Burns fiddles, interest soars," "Simon — we're not simple," "Greenspan back to Wall Street," made it clear that the unionists were mad at an administration they know is loaded with big business officials working only to protect big business.

Unable to attend the rally due to a death in the family — a justifiable excuse, unlike AFL-CIO chief George Meany's, who prior to the rally, spoke out against the need for demonstrations and instead made a date with the Florida sun — Abel's telegram captured the spirit of the event.

ANGERED SOULS

A scratchy, brassy recording of "We Shall Overcome," played over the public address system, did nothing to soothe the angered souls, and soon surging rally participants decided that the stands were getting a bit cold and the sun on the infield grass looked like greener pastures. The remaining program was abandoned and the event was stopped quicker than you could say, "Hubert Humphrey."

Through it all, though, there was a fighting spirit about this rally, a positive, forward thrust that despite the signs of fear and frustration, doubt and confusion, propelled the movement ahead. The unionists might not be ready to erect barricades in the streets, but were ready, willing and able to tell their government "to do something about the damn thing."

60,000 angry workers filled the Washington, D.C., Stadium at the largest labor rally for jobs since the 1930s.

Last week in the Washington Post, columnist Nicholas von Hoffman described the growing intimidation and harassment the U.S. feminist movement is receiving from the FBI. Included in the article is a statement by an officer of the Terriance Park, Ohio, branch of the National Organization of Women (NOW) in which she describes her tapped phone: "Sometimes I can't hear it; sometimes I hear the sound of a broken tape on a reel. When that happens we tell them, 'Get it together boys.'"

New York Times reporter Tom Goldstein describes a report prepared by the New York City Bar Association detailing many of the illegal CIA activities. Among the illegal CIA tactics pointed out in this report were the preparation of a psychological profile of Daniel Ellsberg and the wiretapping of telephones of private citizens. □

LOS TRES BAIL REVOKED—ARRESTED WITHOUT WARNING

(Los Angeles, Calif.) - A heavily armed FBI team recently smashed into the office of the defense committee for Los Tres del Barrio (the Barrio Three), tearing out phone lines and ransacking the office in their search for the three Chicano activists, whose bail was revoked without warning, reports the Liberation News Service.

The Los Tres — Alberto Ortiz, Rodolfo Sanchez and Juan Fernandez — had been free on $50,000 bail each since November, 1974, pending the appeal of a 1972 conviction for assault on a federal officer.

The conviction was for an assault on federal agent, Robert Caneles. Caneles was known to the three only as Bobby Parker, a heroin pusher in their East Los Angeles community, where they were working to eliminate the sale and use of hard drugs. The campaign had already reduced the amount of heroin and Seconal (downers/reds) in the community.

The conviction was up before the U.S. Supreme Court pending review when federal District Court Judge Lawrence Leitz, in apparent conspiracy with the U.S. District Attorney, secretly handed down an order revoking Los Tres' bail and issuing warrants without informing any of the defense lawyers. In ordering Los Tres arrested, Leitz claimed that the activists were "dangerous and a menace to society."

After the FBI ransacking of the defense committee's office, the FBI and the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) went after the three, arrested them on the streets (one with his child) and broke into their homes maliciously and without warning.

Rodolfo Sanchez and his young son were surrounded by police cruisers on a busy downtown street. The street was quickly cordoned off by police who arrested the unarmed and initial-widdered Sanchez. Alberto Ortiz was similarly arrested by a squad of police cruisers as the infamous LAPD Special Weapons Attack Team (SWAT) squad sealed off a downtown street. Neither Sanchez nor Ortiz had any knowledge of their bail revocation and arrest warrants.

Chicano wall mural in East Los Angeles.

While dozens of FBI agents swept through the block surrounding the home of Juan Fernandez, other agents burst into his home. One, identified only as agent Bunker, put a gun to the head of Fernandez's mother and demanded information about her son's whereabouts. On the advice of his lawyer, Fernandez later gave himself up.

The three activists are being kept in Los Angeles County Jail under maximum security guard.

They eat in their cells, get almost no exercise or showers, aren't allowed to mix with other prisoners, and receive visitors — family and lawyers — with guards standing on both sides of them.

Lawyers for Los Tres say the order signed by Judge Leitz revoking bail and issuing the arrest warrants was improper since the case is before a higher court. They are in the process of obtaining writs for the release of the three...

teachers threatened students with lowered grades if they were found participating in the demonstration. Additional rumors have circulated McClymonds that the school picnic and the school hall have been cancelled, although this has not been verified.

Other efforts to reach policy change short of a demonstration included four separate attempts on the part of Ms. Williams to have acting school superintendent James Blackburn come to McClymonds to discuss the issue with the student council. Blackburn never came.

TELEPHONE CALL

A telephone call to the district administration offices on Friday, the day of the demonstration, ended with the students being told that Blackburn was out of town and could not come to the school that day. Later investigation revealed that the students had been lied to, that Blackburn was in Oakland on Friday, but chose to ignore the demonstration. Other district administrators contacted on Friday failed to attend as well.

In the interview, Sister Valerie said that she favored the implementation of sex education classes at McClymonds — there are none at present — and has discussed that possibility, with favorable results, with several nurses at the local West Oakland Health Clinic. She said she intends to present her ideas to Dr. Harper some time in the near future.

Although McClymonds was formerly the only school in the city with a ban on young sisters with children participating in certain school functions, research indicates that the school has the lowest percentage of unwed mothers of any public high school in the district.

ON THE RELEVANCE OF THE CHURCH

BY HUEY P. NEWTON

The following is the conclusion of "On the Relevance of the Church," an address delivered by Huey P. Newton, leader and chief theoretician of the Black Panther Party, at the Center for Urban Black Studies, Graduate Theological Union, Berkeley. In the conclusion Brother Huey shares with his audience responses to questions regarding the material he had discussed on the relevance of the church and its relationship to the Black Panther Party.

CONCLUSION

So even though I see a thing is not the answer, I don't think it's dishonest to involve myself in it for the simple reason that the people tend to take not one step higher; they take a half step higher.

Then they hang on to what they view as the reality because they can't see that reality is constantly changing. When they finally see the changes (qualitatively) they don't know why or how it happened. Part of the reason reality changes around them is because they are there; they participate whether they like it or not.

What we will do now is involve ourselves in any thing or any stage of development in the community, support that development, and try to introduce some insight into it. Then we will work very hard with people in the community and with this institution so that it can negate itself. We will be honest about this and we hope they are honest too and realize that everything is negated eventually, this is how we go on to higher levels.

I was warned when I got up here that it would be appropriate to have a question and answer period, so I guess we should start now because I'm subject to go on and on.

QUESTION: I would like to know in your re-evaluation of your former stance in relationship to the community, in what ways do you expect to merge or bring together the community of the Catholic Church into the Black Panther Party?

NEWTON: First, we can't change the realities, direct them, or harness their forces until we know them. We have to gather information. We can gather information about the church by experiencing the church. As a matter of fact that is how we gain facts: through empirical evidence, observation, and experience. In order to do this we have to go to the church. You see, the only laboratory in society we have is the community itself, and we view ourselves not only as scientists but also as activists.

Now we say try to merge theory with practice, so we're going to churches now. I went to church last week for the first time in ten years, I guess. We took our children with us. We have a youth institute, the Samuel Napier Youth Institute. We have about thirty children now and we took them to church and involved ourselves. We plan to involve ourselves in many community activities, going through the behavior the church goes through in order to contribute to the community.

We also hope to influence the church, as I'm sure the church will influence us. Remember that we said that even when whole societies and cultures meet they are both modified by each other. And I am saying that the very fact that we're there is the new ingredient in the church, and we know that we will be affected and hope that they will be affected. But I warn you that we hope to have more effect than they.

Just briefly I mentioned our Youth Institute. We have children from three to fourteen years old; most of them have already been kicked out of schools and we have a shortage of facilities because the hard core Black community is just an aggregate now. People who happen to be Black.

We are teaching them first what I mentioned earlier about bourgeois skills. It is necessary for us to learn these skills in order to understand the phenomena around us, the society. On the other hand, we don't like the way the skills have been used, so we're going to withdraw. I don't like parochial schools; I don't like separate schools, but I think that sometimes you have to use that strategy.

For example, the Black Panther Party is a Black organization. We know that we live in a world of many cultures and ethnic groups and we all interconnect in one way or another. We say that we are the contradiction to the reactionary Western values, but we cannot separate because we're here. Technology is too far advanced for us to isolate ourselves in any geographical location—the jet can get there too fast and so can the early-bird TV set—so what we have to do is have the control of these devices.

So far as our children are concerned, the only reason they are at this separate school is because the public schools were not giving them the correct education. They can hardly learn to read and write. I don't want them to end up as I did: I only learned how to read after I was seventeen and that must not happen to them. I've only been reading for about 10 years or so and that is not very good—I still don't read very well.

FANTASY

Our plan is not to have our children graduate from our school and live in a fantasy. Our effort is to keep them in there just as long as it will take for them to organize the school and make it relevant. In other words we are going to send them back into the wilderness, but we're going to send them with their purse and their scribes with them this time.

QUESTION: When David Hilliard spoke to the National Committee of Black Churchmen that met in Berkeley, he called the preachers who were gathered there a bunch of bootlicking pimps and motherfuckers, a comment that never should have been made public anyway. And he threatened that if the preachers did not come around that the Panthers would "off" some of the preachers. If you're not able to influence the Black church as much as you think, will the Panther Party return to this particular stance?

NEWTON: The Black Panther Party will not take the separate individual stand. We'll only take the stand of the community because we're interested in what the community will do to liberate themselves. We will not be arrogant and we would not have the most rudimentary knowledge if we did not know that we alone cannot bring about change.

It was very wrong and almost criminal for some people in the

CRIME AND JOBS

BY TOM WICKER

Although from antiquity the brotherhood of unemployment and crime has been known and recognized—particularly by the poor and the jobless—until recently few voices have broken through speaking out for the need to break up this deadly duo. The following article, written by New York Times editorial reporter Tom Wicker, backs the cry for jobs and a decent life sounded by Black and other oppressed peoples trapped in this country's urban enclaves, and tells of what Wicker calls, the "chilling truth."

When the FBI published sharply higher figures for the incidence of crime in 1974, Attorney General Edward Levi attributed part of the increase to rising unemployment, and it was remarked in this space that Americans might well "ponder the implications of the apparent link between rising unemployment and rising crimes."

New publication of crime figures for the first two months of 1975 in New York City tend to confirm that there is such a link, as Police Commissioner Michael Codd had warned that there would be. And the more chilling truth—as disclosed in a recent survey by Soma Golden of The New York Times—is that economists believe high unemployment will be with us for at least the rest of this decade, that the rate will rise even higher before it begins to come down, and that the general public seems prepared to tolerate high unemployment for some as preferable to inflation for all.

Americans, then, ought indeed "ponder the implications of the apparent link between rising unemployment and rising crime." In 1974, as a declining economy progressively forced people out of work, the rate of crime rose by 17 per cent nationally, compared to a rise of only 6 per cent in 1973.

The rate of violent crime doubled, the rate of property crime tripled, and the link to rising unemployment was suggested by the facts that crime rose the most in the last three months of the year, as did joblessness; that cities with the most unemployment had the biggest rises in the rate of crime; and that the crime rate increases were reflected most sharply in muggings, robberies and assaults—the crimes of the streets, where poor and unemployed persons often make their way.

The January-February figures for New York City show much the same pattern, with serious crimes increasing by 21.3 per cent. Robberies went up most, by 26.3 per cent. Assaults rose 20.5 per cent. In New York, robberies and assaults are often street muggings—again suggesting the link to unemployment, since muggers tend to be youths, and teenage unemployment is now running at 20.6 per cent (and more than 40 per cent Black teenagers).

But the Golden survey tells us that it may be 1979 before unemployment—it is now nearly 9 per cent of the work force and may yet rise to 10 per cent or more—can be reduced to 6 per cent, and that economists have all but abandoned the old "full employment" target of only 4 per cent unemployment. At this moment, eight million Americans are looking for work and another 1.1 million have been so long out of work that they have given up looking for a job in frustration.

Worse, as Miss Golden pointed out, is the age-old pattern in which "the unemployment rate of women is worse than that of men, of

U.S. MAPS NEW FOREIGN POLICY IN OIL-RICH LANDS

Despite the U.S. defeat in South Vietnam and Cambodia, the American industrial-military complex continues to seek new areas for expansionism and exploitation. In the following article by Pacific News Service reporters Bob Manning and Peter Holden, the emerging U.S. foreign policy and strategy in oil and mineral-rich countries after Vietnam are discussed.

(San Francisco, Calif.) - While gloomy stories of defeat in Southeast Asia fill the newspapers, a new U.S. strategy has been emerging quietly in one of the world's most vital regions—that vast arc of oil and mineral-rich lands stretching from Pakistan and Iran through Saudi Arabia down into eastern and southern Africa.

Since the early days of the Nixon administration, Washington has made a series of moves in this area. These can now be recognized as parts of a deliberate strategy.

That strategy has, as its ultimate aims, keeping the Soviets out, gradually linking the governments of countries along the arc, and maintaining free access to their resources—resources even more vital to Western Europe and Japan than to the U.S.

The year 1968 marked a turning point. President Johnson de-escalated in Indochina, but Britain also pulled its military forces out of the Persian Gulf. The U.S. was still bogged down in Indochina, then, while a power vacuum suddenly emerged in the Middle East.

In his "Nixon Doctrine" speech of July, 1969, Nixon outlined a new strategy. This involved withdrawing U.S. ground forces from the Asian mainland while building up the forces of friendly regimes, and backing them with off-shore U.S. naval and air power.

As it unfolds, this strategy has proved most powerful in the western parts of the Indian Ocean. The U.S. Seventh Fleet, once concentrated in Indochinese waters, has now moved in force into the Persian Gulf. And—beginning with powerful and firmly pro-U.S. Iran—country after country is being built up militarily by the U.S. with no hint of U.S. ground involvement.

In contrast to 20 years of strident anti-communism, the new U.S. moves are pragmatic. They involve cooperating with leftist governments where feasible, avoiding hostility towards unfriendly countries, and, on occasion, opposing rightist regimes whose policies conflict with the strategy.

The key tactics of the new strategy involve tying governments to the U.S. by furnishing arms and strengthening economic ties, particularly through oil and mineral dollar flows. Ideology counts far less than in the days of "containing communism."

SEEDS OF NEW STRATEGY

Seeds of the new strategy go as far back as 1969, when the U.S. recognized that NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization), the bastion of European defense, was gradually weakening. With Western Europe increasingly dependent on unstable Mideastern oil, facing severe economic difficulties, and with anti-U.S. sentiment rising sharply, the new Indian Ocean strategy props up the "soft underbelly of Europe"—the lands stretching from quarreling Greece and Turkey to left-leaning Portugal.

Unlike the alliances of NATO—or CENTO (Central Treaty Organization) in the Mideast, or the defunct SEATO (Southeast Asian Treaty Organization)—the new strategy works by weaving a network based on bilateral ties, with the U.S. at the center. This allows countries unrelated—or even hostile—to each other to enter the network. For example, by furnishing arms to Arab countries as well as to Israel, the U.S. sought not only to settle the Arab-Israeli dispute but to bring them into a common network.

A look at the bilateral ties existing all along the arc shows how far the strategy has already come:

Blacks worse than Whites, of teenagers worse than adults, and of the unskilled worse than the skilled." Note the bottom categories—unskilled teenage Blacks, with unskilled teenage Whites not much better off, and the most disadvantaged of all the unskilled teenage Black female. Moreover, these particular unemployed persons usually have not worked enough to be eligible for unemployment insurance.

STIMULATING EFFECT

It seems self-evident that these patterns of unemployment are bound to have a stimulating effect on crime—particularly street crime (although it is not so clear that unemployment similarly affects murder and rape). Not only is street crime committed in most cases for economic gain; it also seems reasonable to suppose that much of it stems from the anger and frustration and alienation of those essentially rejected by a highly technological society—the enjoyable fruits of which, for the affluent many, are plainly visible to the poor and the embittered few.

And even if unemployment can be reduced in four years to something like 6 per cent, Sona Golden's figures suggest that that still will mean as many as 5.5 million persons out of work, and hundreds of thousands more

Job seekers in Chicago. "...patterns of unemployment are bound to have a stimulating effect on crime..."

•Pakistan—Now a Mideastern power after the loss of Bangladesh, its leftist government is one of the U.S.'s firmest allies. Pakistan is linked to Iran, the major U.S. ally in the region, through CENTO and, more recently, military collaboration against Baluchi tribesmen operating in the mountains behind Chah Bahar where major American-supplied Iranian naval installations are going up.

•Iran—Allied to the U.S. since the CIA provoked the overthrow of the Mossadegh government in 1953, Reza Shah's Iran has now become the most powerful nation in the Middle East. Rich with oil revenues and embarked on "Japan-type" industrialization programs, the Shah is totally committed to working with the U.S.—which has already sold him some $7 billion in arms. Iran grants U.S. reconnaissance planes landing rights in its airfields, access to two major bases and use of a listening post on Abye Musa Island in the Persian Gulf.

•Iraq—Even before the recent detente with Iran, the radical left Iraqi regime has been veering away from the Soviet Union, seeking closer ties with Western oil corporations. With the withdrawal of Iranian support for the Kurds, Iraq has ended a 25 year-old rebellion and, with it, the need for Soviet arms.

•Sheikhdoms—of the Persian Gulf—With Oman taking the lead, the U.S. is being slowly granted military base rights in this area. And, despite the unsettling effects of oil politics, ties to U.S. corporations are growing.

•Saudi Arabia—Since King Faisal's assassination, there have been no signs of change in Saudi Arabia's conservative, strongly pro-U.S. policy, or in its uncertainty over the Shah of Iran's ambitions in the Persian Gulf, which rival their own.

•Egypt—The "Kissinger policy" failed here, but Anwar Sadat has given no sign of tilting toward the U.S.S.R., is not rattling sabers toward Israel, and seems content with the fumbling policy of collaboration with the U.S.

•Ethiopia—The military junta here calls itself "socialist" yet is buying arms from the underemployed, poverty-stricken and probably alienated from the affluent society around them...

...Is it not possible, in fact, that the swift and frightening increase in the crime rate in America in recent decades is due not least to the concurrent development of something like a permanent underclass not so much exploited as left behind—an economic substratum unable to rise by unskilled labor that is no longer in demand, unable to compete in a highly organized technological society, heavily damaged by being—in the cities—predominantly Black in a White environment and embittered by evidence all around of its hopeless disadvantages? □ a corresponding lack of debate over the costs and dangers involved.

One set of costs and dangers can be seen in Iran—which the U.S. regards as a model for all countries along the arc. This is an efficient dictatorship, pushing economic development, quashing internal challenges, and solidly aligning itself with the U.S. abroad. The costs to the Iranian people of the Shah's dictatorship—for example, the large number of executions of dissidents, the heavy-handed actions of the Savak, one of the largest secret police forces in the world—have only barely filtered into the Western press, and few in America have yet discussed the powderkeg potentialities in the great-power ambitions of the Shah.

NO CONGRESSIONAL SANCTIONS

Another reason for the absence of debate is that there is no Congressional sanction for the new policies. Congress only gradually became aware that the issue of a base on Diego Garcia—a sand speck in the middle of the Indian Ocean—involved far more than a technical communications facility. Like so much U.S. foreign policy over the last quarter century, the arc strategy was evolved out of sight of Congress or the public, for fear that they might obstruct it.

The gap between the strategic thinkers and virtually everyone else is most clear in the attitudes toward left-leaning Portugal. While most observers—including even two U.S. ambassadors in Lisbon—have denied there are signs of a communist takeover, Kissinger insists such a danger exists. Kissinger has in mind a larger strategy in which Portugal plays a key role, but this role, of course, has not been explained to the public.

As Congress lumbers slowly toward some debate over Diego Garcia, the new strategy has already generated commitments that may make disengagement impossible. As in Indochina, the strategists have moved quietly—convinced that their plans were too intricate to be explained to a slow-witted Congress and public.

Heavily armed police details stood guard at entrances to county buildings surrounding Kennedy Plaza, the site of the start and finish of the demonstration. There were also heavy police details along the Commerce Street parade route to city hall and the return route on Main Street back to Kennedy Plaza. However, the demonstration proceeded without incident.

Black Panther Party leader Fred Bell told the demonstrators that the government must provide jobs and the city must end police brutality against minorities and poor people.

A Community Control Job Plan, drawn up by the three sponsoring organizations, demanded that the local government "provide the finances to start community controlled cooperatives that are owned by everyone in the community," and administered by a board of directors "elected in each area by popular vote of the community."

"We presented this plan in an earlier form to the city council and other officials in February during the community development hearings," Charlie Young, leader of the Bois d'Arc Patriots, told the crowd, "but we have received no positive response. We are asking the city for enough funds to put us over the edge."

Asserting that it is the duty of federal, state and local city government to guarantee jobs, with good pay, when private industry has failed to do so, the plan calls for the creation of basic facilities to produce needed goods and services in those areas most hard hit by unemployment.

Grants should include building space, training for managers and workers, equipment, and supplies, operating capital to establish clothing and shoe factories, home building and repair cooperatives, food processing plants, farms, cattle ranches, dairy farms and dairy products processing plants, transportation cooperatives (trucking), street paving and repair cooperatives, a community labor pool and other means of basic production.

The community could then use its resources to produce needed goods and services and provide employment for its own people—jobs in which workers share in ownership, the profit of which would be used to expand and fund social service programs, such as day care centers, medical programs, pest control programs,

Earlier, on April 4, members of the Black Panther Party, the family of slain Brother David Walker and over 200 supporters packed the corridors and chambers of the city council to demand justice in the death of David Walker, and succeeded in securing an investigation of the slaying independent from the DPD.

More than 2,300 petitions demanding an independent investigation of the young brother's death were presented to the city council. Fred Bell, representing the Black Panther Party, warned the council that it should be thankful "that Black and poor people are still coming before you in an orderly manner, demanding justice in the cases of the brutalized and murdered."

Party to make the mistake to think that the Black Panther Party could overthrow even the police force. It ended up with the war between the police and the Panthers, and if there is the war it needs to be between the community and the reactionary establishment, or else we are isolating ourselves.

As for what David Hilliard said, what we did was alienate you. That kind of alienation put us in a void where blood was spilled from one end of this country to the other, our blood, while the community watched. Our help watched on, you see? But it was more our fault than theirs because we were out there saying that we were going to lead them into a change. But we cannot lead them into a change if they will not go. As a matter of fact, we cannot

Brother Bell said that he was making a "blanket condemnation" of the Dallas Police Department "because we understand the role of the police. They are a domestic military entity allowed to oppress Black people and other people of color and poor people in the city." To the roar of applause from the crowded chamber, Fred Bell declared: "We are going to have to develop a counter military entity within our community for self defense. This is legal, brothers and sisters. We should begin to implement this right now."

CHOKED TO DEATH

David Walker was killed in the Dallas City Jail when, according to an inmate eyewitness, two policemen choked him to death with a sock. Police claim the young brother committed suicide by hanging himself "in a telephone booth."

exist individually if we don't band together to resist the genocide against all of us. So just as I criticize David Hilliard, I criticize myself, because I knew that stuff was going on and I argued against it, but I didn't leave the Party. Finally the change came about.

And so what I am saying is that I understand, and the reason that I didn't leave was that it wasn't an outrage to my humanity even though I cringed every time. Because I understood that we did it not out of hatred, but love. He did it because he was outraged by the church's inactivity, as you are outraged (not you personally, but you in the plural) at this situation, and he was outraged, of course, because of your isolation. So we are all in the same boat; and when we end up in the same boat that means we are unified.

Speaking of games, and dealing with society at the same time, I have to recommend four books that provided me with a lot of helpful information during the hair-cut issue and throughout my jail sentence. The first is The Sane Society by Erich Fromm, the second I'm O.K., You're O.K. by T.A. Harris, the third is Born to Win by Muriel James and Dorothy Jongeward, and the fourth is The Games People Play by Berne. I'm sure these books will help you understand many important problems in yourselves, in the Army, and in our society.

But back to the Third Herd. I would like to add here that an adventure through jail, and the 3rd Herd is quite an interesting experience. Personally, I learned a great deal more about people, the Army, and our society than I had by being the good little all American G.I. from 592nd Signal Company, Berlin, trying to do my duty for God and my country.

B.S. That has become the biggest force since G.I.s were being threatened by hanging for a sitdown last November at McNair Compound, or Watergate, for that matter. It is very difficult for me to express what I see, and feel, and know now. It was very difficult to help you all be aware of what was going on right in front of your noses during the Hair Protest. What can one person say?

The thing is I'm not one person alone anymore. I am a part of many people now who also see the needs of our society, and who refuse to conform and support his system any longer. This may sound a bit subversive to you, and may disturb you one way or another, but I tell you something now that will disturb you even further, being that you, in fact, live under a modern day dictatorship, and that our so-called freedom is measured out and provided for limited movement.

You are not paid to think, but only to respond.

These three statements should click-off something positive in your minds. What are we living for, what is our purpose as people, and as a nation? All I can say is: use your time to be aware of what is going on concerning you in the world. Realize that you are a part of life just as well as anyone else, and can see the needs and ways to do something for the benefit of all mankind, and then action it, move!

C.I.A. CREATED, SPIES ON AFRICAN LABOR GROUPS

(San Francisco, Calif.) - A sham U.S.-financed labor organization which has had a major influence over political and diplomatic policies in 35 African countries has been linked to the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The New American Movement reports in a long article by Rodney Larsen, that Irving Brown, who resigned in 1973 as director of the African-American Labor Center (AALC), was well-known as a CIA operative on several continents.

According to former CIA agent Philip Agee — who has written an exposé on the illegal activities of the intelligence organization — Brown served for a time as "European representative for the American Federation of Labor and principal CIA agent for control of the International Federation of Free Trade Unions (IFFTU)." Altogether, Brown's infiltration of the American labor movement spanned some 40 years beginning in the 1930s with the United Auto Workers (UAW).

The AALC was launched in 1964 for the purpose of maintaining U.S. control and surveillance over African labor movements. Headquartered in New York and Botswana (in southern Africa), the AALC was set up under the sole control of the White House. Few legislators or labor leaders are aware of AALC's existence although it is financed by the Agency of International Development (AID) and is, according to Rodney Larsen, "a creature of the AFL-CIO in the formal sense."

In February, 1965, Brown said that AALC would rely on the "services" of consultants, including competent technicians and interested management representatives who have knowledge of the specific areas of Africa. The Center will also offer its assistance to visiting African groups, both labor and management, in order to acquaint them with the various aspects of the labor movement in the U.S."

SHAREHOLDING CHURCHES HIT I.B.M. ON SOUTH AFRICAN INVESTMENTS

(Pittsburgh, Pa.) — A coalition of shareholding religious groups attacked the International Business Machines (IBM) Corporation for its investments and activities in the racist South African regime at the monopoly's recent annual stockholders' meeting here.

The agenda of the three-hour meeting was dominated by questions and comments on IBM's role in South Africa. The New York Times reports.

At one point IBM chairman Frank T. Cary told a representative of the Episcopal Church in Iowa that "we're (IBM) certainly going to look into this."

However, Cary added, "I'd be misleading you if I told you that any criteria we could establish would stop apartheid."

Debate at the stockholder's meeting centered on a clergy-sponsored proposal calling on IBM to end its sales and other activities in South Africa because of that country's strict policy of racial segregation called apartheid. The proposal was defeated by a vote of 116.8 million to 1.9 million shares.

About 1,250 stockholders attended the meeting held in Heinz Hall for the Performing Arts. Clergymen present represented a coalition of religious groups including the National Council of Churches and the Episcopal Church, which together own $9 million worth of IBM shares.

During the meeting, a local clergyman attempted to confuse the issues and whitewash South Africa in heated debate with clergymen who supported the resolution on South Africa. The local clergyman insisted that his fellow ministers were neglecting other areas of Africa where, he maintained, Black majority governments enforced equally oppressive measures against White minorities.

IBM head Cary admitted that IBM is operating a computer system in Namibia (South West Africa) but said that it was installed before the United Nations (UN) imposed sanctions against trade with South Africa. South Africa illegally rules Namibia.

CHILE OPERATIONS

In other matters, Cary said in reply to a question on IBM operations in Chile that it would be "impossible to move in and out on a short-time basis" as political regimes changed. He also defended his country's recent sale of a large computer system to Chile.

Cary refused to answer most questions concerning an upcoming antitrust suit against IBM by the Department of Justice, due to open in court on May 19. His only comment was:

"You will be hearing and reading many accusations against IBM because the plaintiff (Justice Department) presents his case to the court first. But we will have our day in court too."

In his formal presentation at the beginning of the stockholders' meeting, Cary predicted "gross opportunities" for data-processing and word-processing business during the coming years.

"No one is certain when we can expect a turnaround in the economy. The consensus, however, is that the bottom will soon be reached and the recovery from this very low level will begin some time in the second half of this year," Cary claimed.

BROTHER OF LIBERIAN PRESIDENT KILLED

(Monrovia, Liberia) — The brother of Liberian president, William R. Tolbert, Stephen A. Tolbert, and five other persons were killed last week when an aircraft they were traveling in crashed in the sea just after take-off at Greenville, 200 miles south of the Liberian capital here. Stephen A. Tolbert was Liberia's finance minister.

"THE ARABS" MAKES WEST COAST DEBUT

MONTHLY NEWSLETTER
OF S.F. ARAB
INFORMATION CENTER

(San Francisco, Calif.) - The Arabs—West Coast Report, monthly publication of Arab Information Center here, appeared for the first time last month, and is a tribute to its hard working editor and head of the Center, Mr. Khalid I. Bahaa.

Patterned after the East Coast Arab Report, published by the Arab Information Center in Washington, D.C., the West Coast version is a four page, newsletter size effort beautifully printed, easy to read and bringing together in its limited space a large body of information not available to the general American reader anywhere else.

The maiden issue of The Arabs—West Coast Report, includes a tribute to the assassinated leader of Saudi Arabia, the late King Faisal Al-Saud; an assessment of the current Middle East situation following the recent Kissinger failure in that area; excerpts from "Personal History" the diaries of American journalist Vincent Sheean, dealing with his experiences in Palestine in 1929, and a report on Israeli government attacks on Dr. Israel Shahak, Chairman of the Israeli League for Human and Civil Rights.

Under the title "Israeli 'inflexibility'—American 'reassessment,'" Khalid I. Bahaa, in a signed commentary, examines attempts by Israeli officials to justify their refusal to accept Middle East countries' overtures for a peaceful solution of the conflict, and the growing awareness in U.S. government circles that Israeli intransigence is the main obstacle to concrete moves toward peace in the Middle East.

Mr. Bahaa concludes his piece with the assertion: "The American people will not escape the conclusion, in the face of the evidence, that Israel is neither in theory nor in practice interested in peace. Rather she is interested in pieces of Arab territory. The Israelis cannot and will not have both."

In "Personal History" published in 1934, Vincent Sheean includes an account of the period in Palestine of the first real outbreak of violence between Palestinians and Jewish immigrants, during the riots of 1929. The account comprises

WEST COAST REPORT

VOLUME ONE      NUMBER ONE

A TRIBUTE TO A PATRIARCH

King Faisal Al-Saud

The most outstanding death of King Faisal Al-Saud is a blow to international efforts for peace with justice in the Middle East as well as to democratic and progressive movements throughout the region. His leadership efforts in maintaining areas of oil concessions, in defense, in politics and with Arab brothers made him the most crucial factor facing us in the Arab world can hardly be underestimated. His dedication to the peaceful arabs' cause as a statesman should always be remembered. His memory should never be forgotten. Rest in peace.

Mr. Khalid I. Bahaa

Editor, The ARABS—West Coast Report

He has died leaving behind many memories which, although very great, will not be easily erased. His example of honest, true and sincere work for the international cause, his work for progress, brotherhood and the welfare of all people should be remembered.

He was born in 1920 in Egypt, studied law at the University of Cairo, and graduated in 1943. He then joined the Egyptian Foreign Service, serving in various posts in the Middle East, Africa, and Asia. He was a member of the Egyptian Delegation to the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in 1964.

Chapter 8, which Sheean calls "Holy Land," and chronicles Sheean's journey to Palestine, at first "in the pay of Jews," commissioned by The New Palestine Zionist publication to do a series of articles on life in the "Jewish colonies."

These experiences in Palestine of 1929 were to bring Sheean a new vision of the Holy Land, a "Holy Land" that seemed "as near an approximation of hell on earth as I had ever seen," he has written. The excerpts from Sheean's "Personal History," are revealing insights into the nature of aggressive, racist Zionist attitudes toward the Arabs of 1929 Palestine and why Sheean wondered: "Why couldn't the Zionist leave it (Palestine) alone?"

The final piece describes the wide scale attacks on Dr. Israel Shahak, professor of organic chemistry at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and chairman of the Israeli League for Human and Civil Rights, by the Israeli press, radio and television, some making a clear threat against Dr. Shahak's life.

Professor Shahak is currently being investigated by the Israeli Ministry of Justice to determine whether or not he can be tried for treason, reports the newsletter. His "treasonable crime" is his consistent support for equal treatment of Palestinians and Israelis living in Israel and his exposure of the discriminatory and oppressive treatment of Arabs in Israel.

CONDEMNING LETTER

The piece includes a reprint of a letter to the Israeli paper Jerusalem Post, sent by Father Daniel Berrigan, condemning the persecution of Professor Shahak by the Israeli government and media and warning the Israeli authorities that: "There is an international community which still subscribes to life over death as a social method, which is impeded for human rights and reputations, which has not bowed its knee before whatever tyranny or ideological idol. The eyes of this community are on Professor Shahak—and on the state of Israel."

CONGO

The Italian Agip, Ltd., oil company operating in the Congo has been nationalized, reports Hausa news agency. Beginning April 13, the shares of the company were taken over by the National Society of Petroleum Research and Exploration of the Congo. The measure was taken at a meeting of the Council of State on April 12, presided over by President Marien Ngouabi.

ZANZIBAR

A military parade and processions were held in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, and the island of Zanzibar on April 26 in celebration of the 11th anniversary of the United Republic of Tanzania. In Zanzibar hundreds of army, police and students marched through the streets and proceeded to the State House where government officials and leaders reviewed the procession.

ZIMBABWE

A spokesman for the African National Council of Rhodesia, coordinator of Zimbabwe liberation movements, announced last week that the Africans will not resume constitutional talks with the Ian Smith, White settler regime, until it fulfills agreements made in Lusaka, Zambia, last December. Among these agreements was the release of all political prisoners, a halt to political trials and execution of freedom fighters, an end to the state of emergency in the country and free political activity throughout the country.

UGANDA

The third bi-annual meeting of the African Civil Aviation Commission was opened in Kampala, Uganda, on April 15 to discuss measures of fostering closer cooperation and coordination of policies and activities among African states in the development of air transport and communication. More than 20 African countries are participating. Representatives and observers of international civil aviation organizations, national civil aviation bodies and other countries are attending the conference.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

MULTINATIONAL CARIBBEAN SHIPPING CO. PROPOSED

(Mexico City, Mexico) — Representatives from 17 countries attended a preparatory conference here from April 14 to 17 to establish a Caribbean shipping

According to a press bulletin issued by the conference, focus was placed mainly on maritime transportation, trade and port conditions in the Caribbean. The establishment of a Caribbean shipping company would be a forward step toward regional economic integration, as well as one of the antidotes to the exploitation of U.S. transnationals.

Speaking at the closing session, the chairman of the preparatory conference and head of the Mexican delegation, Hugo Cervantes Del Rio, said:

"A multinational Caribbean fleet is seen fundamentally as an instrument of integration and regional development, aimed at meeting the common interest of all the participating countries."

"We should guard against the overt or covert intervention of foreign forces and the interests hostile to our community," he added.

The establishment of the shipping company has won the support of Venezuela, Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, Costa Rica and other Caribbean countries. Mexican Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs Ruben Gonzales Sosa announced earlier that only government capital investment from member countries would go into the establishment of the company, thereby freeing the country in the beginning from capitalist intervention.

According to the press bulletin, a formal conference to set up the proposed shipping company will be called in San Jose, the capital of Costa Rica, soon.

PUERTO RICO SOLIDARITY CONFERENCE PLANS MADE

(Havana, Cuba) — A preparatory meeting was held here recently to plan the International Conference of Solidarity with the Independence of Puerto Rico, scheduled to meet here from September 5 to 7, 1975.

The International Preparatory Council (IPC), made up of 79 delegates representing 28 countries and 12 international organizations, adopted a draft agenda whose main themes will include:

(1) The colonial reality of Puerto Rico (the country is ruled by the U.S.).

(2) The struggle of the Puerto Rican people for their sovereignty and independence.

(3) International solidarity with the just struggle of the Puerto Rican people.

SOLIDARITY COMMITTEE

Reporting on the two-day IPC meeting, Puerto Rico Libre, the organ of the North American-based Puerto Rican Solidarity Committee (PRSC), writes that a secretariat was elected to conduct the practical work to prepare for the conference. The PRSC was elected to the secretariat and will initiate the formation of a National Auspices Committee of the United States that will organize the U.S. delegation to the conference.

Arthur Kinoy and Frances M. Beal, PRSC National Board members, attended the IPC meeting as official delegates from the U.S.

Puerto Rican workers on strike against exploitation of U.S. industries.

Kinoy, who received a standing ovation at the close of his remarks to the meeting, stressed the inseparable nature of the Puerto Rican people's struggle and the struggle of poor and oppressed people in America against exploitation.

Dr. Juan Marinello Vidaurreta, president of the Cuban Movement for Peace and Sovereignty of the Peoples, gave the opening remarks at the IPC meeting. Pointing to Puerto Rico as an example of the greedy nature of U.S. imperialism, Dr. Marinello said that elements involved in the Puerto Rican colonial situation "denote that the issue is of universal importance to all..." But, he added:

"WORLD CONSEQUENCES"

The importance and the world consequences of the Puerto Rican case have not dawned on the peoples of all latitudes nor roused their awareness."

Dr. Noel Colon Martinez, president of the Puerto Rican Peace Council, presented a gloomy picture of his homeland and discussed the disastrous social and economic effects of colonial domination.

Dr. Colon insisted:

"The Puerto Rican people will continue to express their right to the war of liberation in every form necessary to their survival and to the triumph of their centennial struggle."

Numerous representatives from socialist countries, progressive nations, progressive forces within imperialistic nations and national liberation movements were delegates to the IPC meeting. Vo Anh Tuan, Vietnamese ambassador to Cuba from the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG), received prolonged applause when he outlined the importance of international solidarity in the struggle of Vietnam and its (then) impending victory over U.S. colonialism. □ confinement, defendants have defined plaintiffs' confinement in the Adjustment Center as "normal" and have devised a method of controlling their behavior using negative reinforcement. The Rules Violation Report, CDC form 115, records the guards' version of any alleged behavior ill-befitting a model prisoner. Like a criminal complaint, the filing of the form initiates a process which ends in a makeshift "trial" and punishment.

A guard is appointed to act as an "investigator" of the charges, supposedly on behalf of or as an advocate for the accused prisoner. Since the investigator one day may be the accuser the next, his impartiality is a fiction. The charges are heard by a Disciplinary Committee on which the warden or his representative shares responsibility with guards and officers. The Disciplinary Committee so consistently finds the prisoners guilty as charged that only when the report itself contains such glaring contradictions as to belie the charges do the prisoners even bother to attend the own disciplinary hearings. Even then they are often convicted because the word of an officer is given greater weight than that of a prisoner.

Since the charges, if accurately reflected in the reports, would make the guards appear excessively picky, the reports are doctored, colored and exaggerated, and the incidents inflated to imagined seriousness. Two witnesses for plaintiffs, both ex-guards, testified that it was standard practice for the guards to collaborate on the reports, and to insert or delete details which might not reflect well on the prison guards.

The collaborators ignore the fact that their reports may be the basis for prosecution of prisoners in state court for crimes which could lead to substantial additional years in prison. Knowledge of the inaccuracy of disciplinary reports and the outright fraud and deceit committed in their preparation reinforce the prisoners' knowledge that they are framed on petty charges and then punished regardless of their innocence.

While some reports do describe incidents which actually occurred, others charge prisoners with non-crimes: Tate, found guilty of "threatening an officer" by writing that he would take the notary to federal court if he did not notarize his documents (ten days' isolation for threatening legal action); Spain, Talamentez, Johnson, Drungo, guilty of refusing to lock-up when they insisted on separate occasions on taking their full hour on the tier during the exercise period and not being limited to an arbitrarily announced 45 minutes (five days' isolation, loss of privileges). Convictions on ludicrous, baseless charges, with no consideration given to justifications for action, or incitement, throw into disrepute the entire disciplinary system which was purportedly designed to protect prisoners' rights.

LATIN AMERICA

The fourth session of the General Conference of the Organization for the Prohibition of Nuclear Arms in Latin America (OPANAL) was held recently in Mexico City, Mexico. Jose Ricardo Martinez Cobo, chairman of the third session of the OPANAL General Conference, expressed support for proposals establishing nuclear-free zones in the Middle East, Africa and the Indian Ocean. He criticized the Soviet Union and the U.S. for failing to sign the treaty prohibiting nuclear arms in Latin America. Eighteen OPANAL member countries attended the conference along with observers from 27 other countries.

MIDDLE EAST

The recent Arab Economist Conference held in Baghdad, Iraq, stressed the sovereign rights of Arab countries over their own resources and wealth. The conference also emphasized the need to place Arab nations' wealth in the service of their economic development and advocated dialogues on an equal footing with oil-consuming countries to discuss major economic matters.

PERSIAN GULF

Eight Persian Gulf countries held a conference in late April on developing fishery resources in the Persian Gulf. Held in Qatar's capital city of Doha, the conference set up a fishery training center in Kuwait which is to be financed by Iran, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. The eight participating countries were Kuwait, Bahrain, Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Qatar and Oman.

LATIN AMERICA

Latin American sugar-producing countries have unanimously decided to raise the international sugar price and to take all necessary actions to maintain a stable sugar price in their own interests in the international market. One hundred delegates from 22 countries in Latin America and the Caribbean attended the recent meeting in Puerto Plata, Dominican Republic.

(A Black Child Is...)

As I stand here
Yes, blacker than the blue of charcoal
You can see me in the dark.
I know you're looking
I can feel your cold stare,
your hate eyes.
Staring, staring, continually
As I stand here
Yes, blacker than the blue of charcoal
You can see me in the dark.
I know you're looking
I can feel your cold stare,
your hate eyes.
Staring, staring, continually
staring at me.
Sure you can see me in the dark
Standing there, I am loitering
If I walk I'm prowling
If I run I'm escaping, stealing, looting;
If I sit, I'm shiftless, lazy, a no-good-nigger.
If I frown I'm hostile, a

If I smile I'm a "Tom," a good nigger.
If I stumble, fall, I'm drunk.
If I wash I'm a whore.
If I don't, I'm black trash.
Yes, you surely can see me in the dark.

"INSIGHTS AND POEMS" REVIEWED

HUEY NEWTON AND ERICKA HUGGINS:
"MILLENNIUM WARRIORS"

Black Panther Party leader and chief theoretician Huey P. Newton, and Ericka Huggins, director of the Intercommunal Youth Institute, East Oakland's model school for Black and poor youth, have combined their wisdom and creative talents in a newly released book entitled Insights and Poems. The following are excerpts from a review of Insights and Poems written by Tony Seymour of City Lights Books in San Francisco, California, the publisher of Insights and Poems.

Ericka Huggins is a Black Panther Party member whose current responsibility is to serve the people as director of the Intercommunal Youth Institute in East Oakland. Ericka's role as director places her in the position of instituting educational experiences and programs which will aid in eradicating racism at its core — those early formative years where a child's impressions of the world blossom either into a full and complete learning experience of shared human joy or where a child's eyes squint and view the world through a racist/dogmatic discriminatory eye. Ericka is plainly engaged in the tedious struggle of maintaining human self-dignity amidst the Crown and Thorns and Glory of Self-Sacrificing-Self-Effacing American Dream-Image-Makers.

For many years now, Ericka has chronicled the self-destructtion of the American ruling class. Through the vehicle of poetry she sighs in a quiet voice sending love odysseys into the heartlands of America's cold and decrepit vast-united-wilderness. A break in the clouds occurred, and her poetry is seeing the stormy light of day. On Mayday, poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti's North Beach historic outfit City Lights Books, placed up for sale her book entitled Insights and Poems by Huey P. Newton and Ericka Huggins.

Huey P. NEWTON, founder and ideologist of the Black Panther Party, disappeared in August, 1971. He left behind the Black Panther which continues, as Ericka says, "in his memory and a leadership that must now move. In the meantime, a friend to all people, ERICKA HUGGINS, published an oral history retrospective account of her own life during the years since her husband, Jim Brown, was assassinated in Los Angeles in 1968 when she became involved in the Black Panther newspaper and as director of the Intercommunal Youth Institute, a model elementary school in Oakland.

Co-author, Huey P. Newton, the founder of the Black Panther Party, is currently indisposed by what many believe a part of recent FBI/CIA attempts at leftist group disbandment, a la post era Nixonian-Dirty Tricks. In any case, wherever Huey may be, in the year before his departure he and Ericka developed the concept for this book when Huey told Ericka that he would like to put his thoughts down with hers and allow the proceeds from such a merger of consciousness to go towards programs for children at the Intercommunal Youth Institute.

Standard American-Media-Propaganda-Control Centers of Misinformation have led to the creation of Frankensteinian-Horror Images of the Black Panther Party and the Vanguard leadership of the party. This horror image was dredged up from the waste and filth and decrepitude of the power elites' subconsciously projected worst fears.

These Centers of Misinformation managed to portray Black Panther Party members as cold, heartless, wild-eyed, loose and raving unholly strangers who swoop down in the vast pit of night in cloak and dagger, Jekyll and Hyde scenarios acting as tormentors and extremist revolutionaries who preach only the doctrine of hate. Such a warped and distorted perception of the inner hearts of these people will be rectified with the reading of Huey and Ericka's book Insights and Poems.

The Yin/Yang nature of the universe makes it imperative that people understand the dualities which exist within themselves and Ericka feels that most people refuse to acknowledge their many sides. Of the many sides of Huey P. Newton, she states: "He was gentle enough to fix the bird whose wing is broken and yet he was strong enough to remove those forces which kill human beings."

Ericka contests that Huey's insights are "beyond Zen and beyond poetry." Huey has seen the "other side" and tries to cross the bridge into our world so that we may better comprehend the true life existing in our inner souls.

DOWN TO EARTH POEMS

Ericka complements Huey's insights with her long & sweet, touching down to earth poems ranging from very straightforward pleas for equality emanating from the depths of her Inner-Light-Hearted-Soul, to a streetwise hip up-tempo-side-struttin' serious-minded and totally righteous on-top-of-it dissertation on the nature of time. Her voyage continues to the pictorial poetic outer gulfs of her all too real and terrifying prison experiences (she spent 2 years in prison awaiting trial on charges which were eventually dismissed in the famed Connecticut-13 trial.)

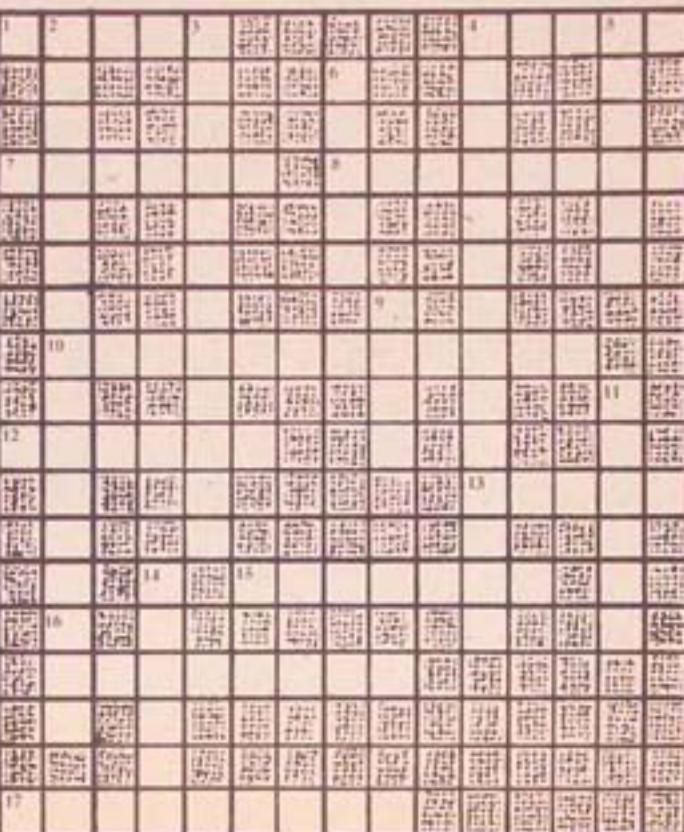

She provides a living/breathing naturally tender, quiet, peaceful testimonial to the strength of women who are outraged in the struggle for human equality:

"...like the bird, your heart will help you to endure the winds of change like the tree you will be carried by your enthusiastic spirit even if times become hard you are tall, small creatures the sun has given you a long shadow you are one of the new women your form is becoming clearer it can be seen for miles."

Ericka regards her writing as a form of self-therapy. She speaks in otherworldly inspired phrases about the nature of writing and expression by saying that the amount of sensitivity necessary for writing requires that people first of all, "cleanse their minds ... and upon cleansing their minds they will find that they have the ability to See beyond eyesight, and to hear beyond the thing that ears do, and Feel beyond what we can touch."

Many of the Poems and Insights reveal a side of Ericka and Huey which most people have never imagined in their minds as being a part of the inner constituency of a revolutionary. A still lotus pool reflects images of their true love for humankind. With Ericka's poetry acting as the reassuring quieting Voice-of-the-Wind which can soothe and heal restless inner souls and Huey's Insights serving as the Ghetto equivalent of Chairman Mao's Little Red Book in its offering of an enlightened path on which to allow the minds of wandering youth to follow, giving credence to Ericka's contention that "revolution constitutes not only economic and political change but total personal change as well..."

The true means of revolution involves the tactical methodology of prolonged struggle vs. the spontaneous haphazard method of hit or miss, slipshod toilet bombings and rioting in the streets. Ericka feels that the methodology which truly works is one of "steps and stages towards freedom. It's a tedious struggle and bit by bit you make changes, and one of the ways to do that is to establish within the field of education something functional, and with the Intercommunal Youth Institute we are trying to create a model in education which others can pattern themselves after, and this constitutes being revolutionary."

The opposition to that belief has been pronounced. Ericka has felt the brunt of many attacks on this philosophy. She declares, "Though the radicals and nationalists around the country feel - 'Oh, look at the Black Panther Party, they've gone absolutely insane. They are doing nothing now. Their energies are all directed towards schools and campaigns and silly things like that.' We just chuckle." She goes on to state that this only shows a lack of understanding of the Party's original 10 point program which outlines functional programs within the Black community of which education was in the middle of the list of things we want and adequate representation and freedom was at the top.

Huey Newton has one insight which reads:

*The more you experience
The less you will believe*
Ericka concludes: "I believe less about all the racing and racing about change... I believe in what I see, hard work and energy poured into the future."

MARTIAL ARTS

ATTACK AS DEFENSE

With the exposure of Jeet Kune Do (at least some of its aspects), through movie theaters, a number of significant concepts have been brought into focus.

Foremost is the concept of attack as defense, which traditional martial arts systems do not incorporate into their structures. Each traditional system is structured such that it includes finite and defined punching, striking, blocking and kicking techniques. The basics of each traditional system define how each of the fundamentals are to be performed, and the mandatory order of execution. That is, a punch must be delivered picture perfect to be technically correct. The same "this way only" idea is applied to kicks, punches, and blocks of traditional systems.

On the other hand, Jeet Kune Do (way of the intercepting fist) observes the principles of performance of a given movement and its practical applications under actual conditions determining the movement's effectiveness.

There does not exist a set of laws or blocking movements in Jeet Kune Do; blocking wastes the practitioner's time and his ability to close distances with technique responses to attacks. Jeet Kune Do utilizes trapping hands, warding off and deflection movements. Trapping temporarily immobilizes an adversary's hands or legs, while warding off and deflection movements redirect an adversary's attacks or contort the attacks at an angle tangential to the target.

The essence of Jeet Kune Do, its effectiveness, is rooted in the ability of its practitioner to use an opponent's own attacks and distance against him. Distance and angles (actually the idea of angles and distances are the same) are changed with any given attack by an opponent. What is often considered defense becomes a responding attack. That is, without the use of conventional blocks, practitioners will ward off, deflect or trap (immobilize) as distances change in response to an attack.

MEXICO DEPORTS SOUTH AFRICAN TENNIS STARS SUPPORTS U.N. RESOLUTIONS CONDEMNING APARTHEID

(Mexico City, Mexico) — In an act of condemnation of the South African racial policy of apartheid, the Mexican government last Tuesday deported South African tennis stars Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt, refusing to allow them to play in the $100,000 World Championship Tennis (WCT) doubles tournament held here last week.

A Mexican government spokesman said the two had entered the country illegally on tourist visas and thus were "not authorized to play professionally in this country."

He added that Mexico had acted in support of United Nations' resolutions condemning South Africa's policy of apartheid — the separation of the native majority Black population and the minority White population.

Mexico does not maintain diplomatic relations with South Africa because of the Vorster government's continuation of apartheid in the face of worldwide opposition and protest.

Earlier this year, Mexico refused to play against the South African Davis Cup tennis team in one of the early rounds of 1975 competition. The 1974 Davis Cup play ended when the government of India refused to allow its team to compete against South Africa.

McMillan and his family were taken into custody by Mexican authorities upon their arrival at the airport here. Hewitt, who earlier in the day had been allowed into Mexico without problems, was picked up at his hotel. Government spokesmen said the men had flown to Dallas to confer with WCT attorneys.

The Mexican government decision to deport the South African players did not affect the seven other teams here for the prestigious doubles tournament.

Mexico was chosen as the site of the WCT doubles finals four months ago. A WCT spokesman said last week the tennis organization realized at the time "there might be problems."

The dispute between the meatcutters and the MMPA centers around an MMPA attempt to cut wages by instituting a new general production rate — a pay cut of $1.50 an hour. On the issue of the guaranteed 36-hour work week, the meatcutters insist that its loss would mean, as one striker has said, "working a whole lot harder in a lot less hours."

The meat packing companies have stepped up their attempts to destroy workers' rights in recent years. In 1971, the same meatcutters who are on strike now were locked out of their jobs for over four months. The packers threatened a $2 million lawsuit for destruction of a few company trucks in order to force the meatcutters' union into a settlement.

fact which is said to have politicians livid with anger.

Even if the bill passes both houses of the Illinois legislature, Walker, considered an independent Democrat, could veto it, a veto it is not thought could be overridden by the legislature. However, Walker, considered in the Black community in particular as an untrustworthy ally, could throw his support to the bill in return for Daley's promise not to oppose Walker in the 1976 gubernatorial election.

Despite the City Manager's claims to the contrary, however, the "Memorandum of Concerns" is a serious and powerful indictment of the OPD. The list presented to the Council — whose decisions the OBOA views as the "only available remedy for resolution short of resorting to legal action" — is a thorough and in-depth account of flagrant and unchecked racism within the department.

The OBOA "memorandum" contains, in part, these allegations:

- Biased hiring practices which discriminate against potential minority officers.
- Racial discrimination in promotion, with Blacks holding only six promoted jobs of 150 and other minorities only two.

• Minority officers are limited in assignments due to favoritism by divisional commanders.

• Minority officers in the patrol division are systematically given assignments with the least favorable days off.

• A "cavalier attitude" by Police Chief George Hart in responding to complaints on "numerous occasions" that Black officers are the object of racial slurs by White officers.

• In recruit training, standards and tests are used that are biased against minorities and have not been shown, according to the Fair Employment Practices Commission, to be related to job performance.

• A department hair regulation which is biased because the "biological growth pattern" of Black officers' hair is not considered.

• Concern that the White-majority Oakland Police Officers Association (OPOA, the official bargaining agent for all Oakland police) has "no current program" for correcting these issues.

The AALC program in Ethiopia has brought thousands of workers to the U.S. on a regular basis for extended and expensive "training." Over 1,000 members of the Ethiopian Federation of Labor Unions (CELU) have participated in extended "seminars" and an estimated 70,000 families have been reached by AALC audiovisual programs.

The AALC has emerged as the ideal weapon for use by the CIA for the sabotage of militant African labor groups. Rodney Larsen notes:

"The background of the staff and leadership of the AALC and the record of the AFL-CIO in other countries abroad, like Chile, makes it much more than just a possibility that this is one of the major purposes of U.S. government financing of the AALC."

GUINIER: "BLACK STUDIES"

Afro-American Studies Department was not alone in this regard, such was small consolation as we entered yet another year depending on outside authorities to commute to Harvard to offer courses in fields which span the heartland of Black Studies. Once again the department lacked permanent specialists of renown in Afro-American history and literature because appropriate inducements had not been offered to luminaries in those areas.

In any event, the Afro-American historian should bring strength extending beyond the traditional boundaries of historical training; the very nature of the Black experience makes such versatility, as rare as it is, not only desirable but imperative. The place of art in the lives of people of African ancestry suggests that an authority in the field of Afro-American history must have a grasp of certain essentials of the folklore of African ancestry here and elsewhere. It is our view that the cultural dimension of the Black experience, during and since slavery, is pivotal not only to understanding our people in North America, but is worthy of serious attention precisely because Afro-Americans have made contributions to the cultural life of the country which have been so singular that the vital center of American popular culture — almost art music and dance — is Black.

An historian who can move across disciplines with ease — from traditional modalities to music, dance and literature — might also help the department establish in practice what leading authorities on the Black experience have recognized for some time — namely, that Black people are better served by non-compartmentalized approaches to scholarship. It is in the nature of the Euro-American experience that people compartmentalize their existence: art is mainly in museums; there is virtually no place for dance in the everyday life of Euro-Americans; there is division between mind and body, reason and emotion, sacred and secular, etc. etc. For most Blacks art is life, the sacred is often indistinguishable from the secular, the observer is frequently participant, the mechanical is not yet divine. Scholarly approaches to the Black experience should therefore reflect the essential unity of that experience.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Comrades,

We have enjoyed your paper for many years and we share similar goals. Enclosed is our contribution of $25.00. Congratulations to your 8th anniversary. We know how important your paper is those people who work for change. Please keep working hard. We will continue to do our part. Let us know if we can do anything in SF.

Sam & Ida Ahrey

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I am a Black inmate presently incarcerated in the Utah State Prison, and I have been confronted with numerous violations of what I believe to be my Constitutional rights. I am presently on a campaign trying to procure information with which I may be able to take legal action.

As you probably already know, Utah is a Mormon state; a place where judge, jury, warden, and prison guard meet in weekly church services, and profess to be the chosen people of God. A damned little state with a warped racial and religious philosophy. Their religious doctrine teaches them that Black people are descendants from the cursed seed of Cain, and therefore damned by the Mormon God.

The below listed violations are but a few of the examples of ill-treatment that we are trying to correct:

1. The absence of a law library. There are no law books, periodicals, or law reporters of any sort in this institution.

2. Inmates are not given adequate opportunities for exercise. All inmates are locked in their cells 23½ hours everyday. With the other half hour they must exercise, shower, clean their cells, and wash if necessary.

3. Limited educational opportunities. Educational opportunities are granted on a privileged basis. Some inmates are given the opportunity to pursue certain educational endeavors, while others are denied the opportunity to pursue the same endeavors. (Practical preference basis).

4. As I have already stated, the predominant religion in Utah is Mormon, and any inmate whose beliefs contradict the Mormons is matter-of-factly denied the right to practice his own religion. The inmates in my particular unit of the institution are not allowed to attend church services of any kind and although we know that this is wrong, we are told that there is nothing we can do about it.

5. Prisoners who subscribe to, send for, or purchase political literature are subject to having this material returned in the sender with no notice of these actions.

These are but a few of the violations prevalent here at this institution. I am trying to procure materials to help me in litigation of a civil suit and I would appreciate any information or legal help you can furnish me with to help me in this action.

Yours in the struggle,
James C. Allen
Draper, Utah 84020

Dearest Black Panther Paper:

I'd try to make this epistle brief and significant. This missive is pertaining to the present treatment of inmates confined in Menard Correctional Center. I have a million complaints to express about this profligate institution, but I'd prefer for somebody to make a recommendation for this mad house to be investigated. A blind man can perceive the injustice that exists in this dungeon.

It's publicized fact that the K.K.K runs this jail. The only reason racial problems exist in here is because the officers in this jail make the White inmates feel better than the Black brothers in here. I implore anybody to consult Lou Palmer or anybody who can help this dilapidated institution change. As people out there can perceive, the same pathetic injustice that exists out there, exists in here.

If people, all people would display more concern for what's happening in prisons, they wouldn't have to ask themselves axiomatic questions like "why do people kill, rape and rob?" Before this place blows up, please send somebody out here to help make matters reasonable. People who are concerned, help me take the heat and press the negative wrinkles out of my mind.

M.B. Keith Shiley
Menard, Ill.

To the Black Panther Paper and the World of Black Society:

First let me say the reason I am writing is very complex. I am writing because I want everyone to know that the state of Florida sent a Black Brother by the name of William H. Robinson to prison for a crime he did not commit.

I feel that every Black face in this country should and must get to know this man, because I feel he is extraordinarily important to all the Black Movement that we have throughout America.

I was there when the crime took place. I saw everything. I know who committed the crime and why it was committed. But I was afraid to help him in court, because I feared my life would be taken.

But since my friends have lost their lives for the same cause that Robinson went to prison for, if I should happen to lose mine let it be for this cause.

Now, this is why everything took place: One-oh-five-three-hundred-and-twenty-five thousand dollars in cash, plus a million and some in diamonds. No one knows where it is but Robinson and I. But I can't touch it without Robinson. Not even to help him which is why he went to prison and why he is being held in prison.

The reason the state of Florida put him in prison is he would not give the money to the state. And the reason they will not let him go is because the State of Florida knows that if they let him go there can't take this from him.

If and when Robinson goes back to court, if I am not dead, I will be there. My name is Miss Gloria Jean Wrights. I am placing my name here because I want Robinson to know that I will be in court when he comes. So, if my name appears on the death list, everyone will know why.

WAUPUN PRISON

—enforce the same policies and slave-labor tactics which the American Corporate Complex applies in South Africa, Latin America, Asia, Puerto Rico, the Philippines, etc...

"Xerox will train prisoners as 'Tech Reps'" (elite title for one who has to clean and rebuild copy-machines), a job for which there is no demand in the labor market. In TAPP, the prisoner will be wasting valuable time (at 50 cents per day) that he could have used to seek beneficial and challenging educational and occupational training opportunities.

Thru an arbitrary and discriminatory screening procedure, Xerox has selected four token poons for the experimental phase. The majority of the prisoners at Waupun are Black, with a considerable number of Native Americans and Chicanos. Yet, of the 4 selectees, there are no Chicanos or Indians, and only 1 Black. The other 3 selectees are White.

"SLAVE-WAGE COST"

TAPP will enable Xerox to get its copy machines rebuilt at slave-wage cost, instead of paying outside employees $4.75 per hour. Xerox will not have to furnish costs for hospitalization, retirement, or other benefits. Xerox will not have to worry about hassles with labor unions, or with laws regarding discrimination and unfair labor practices. Xerox can sustain TAPP indefinitely, because its work force is a steady population of captive peons. Once again, BIG BUSINESS gets over, and the peon gets ripped off.

"Prisoners and citizens' groups have compiled documentation to prove the TAPP conspiracy, but federal and state authorities have attempted to prevent it from being exposed to the people. The flow of evidence between prisoners and citizens, has been severely restricted. Prisoners' letters to Governor Lucey and Senator Proxmire have received no response. Prisoners do not know if Lucey and Proxmire also prefer to keep things quiet, or if the letters are even leaving the prison. Even contact within the prison has been deliberately obstructed..."

Prisoners at Waupun have expressed their intention to file civil and criminal charges against TAPP officials and are now in the process of distributing petitions demanding a complete investigation into the activities and officials of TAPP, to be sent to Senator William Proxmire...
